Tommies In Malta Protest Reserves Claim Poor Conditions

VALLETTA, Malta (Reuters) A crowd of British army reservists, called up at the time of the Suez Canal crisis and rushed here, staged a protest march Monday night, the fourth such demonstration at a British army base in 10 days.

An undisclosed number of troops marched on the officers' mess, shouted down an officer who tried to address them, and demanded to air their grievances, a spokesman of the group said.

The men, anti-aircraft artillerymen, complained of poor food and living conditions in the tented encampment. They staged their march after a mass meeting in the camp canteen.

A headquarters spokesman confirmed that a march had taken place, but would give no details.

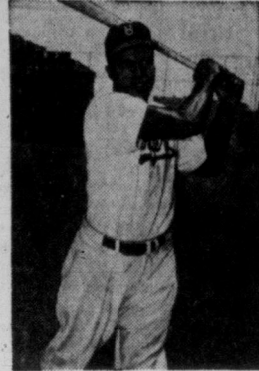

There was a similar march by another unit of British troops here last Friday. And in Britain Monday night a party of reservists protested against their inactivity and camp conditions at a mass meeting at a base in Crookham.

Ten days ago in Cyprus disgruntled reservists held a demonstration at a Suez emergency camp which resulted in 21 arrests.

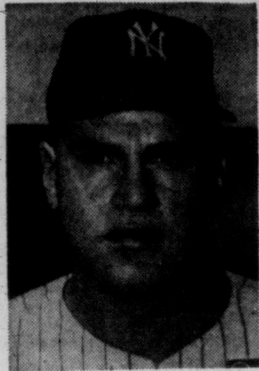

The spokesman of the Monday night demonstrators, telephoning from the base, said the protest march was orderly.

The spokesman said that when they reached the officers' mess their regimental sergeant-major met them and offered to forward their complaints.

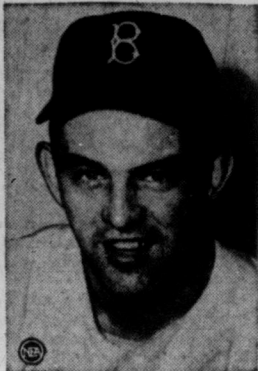

He was shouted down, the spokesman said, as the men wanted to give their complaints to the commanding officer personally.

JACKIE ROBINSON
... Brooklyn's hero

BOB TUNLEY
... heartbreak loser

CLEM LABINE

Labine Pitches Shutout

By OSCAR FRALEY
United Press Sports Writer
BROOKLYN (UP)—Ag-ing Jackie Robinson, writing baseball history once again with an ever potent bat, slashed a clutch single which broke a 10-inning scoreless tie and defeated the New York Yankees, 1-0, today to square the world series for the Brooklyn Dodgers at three games each.

Robinson, nearing the end of the baseball trail, had left five base runners stranded previously against the 95-mile-an-hour fast ball of Bullet Bob Turley. But finally, with two out in the 10th inning and two men on via walks, the man who broke baseball's color line banged out the hit which carried Clem Labine to victory in the first World Series shutout at Ebbets Field in 36 years.

STRUCK OUT 11
It was a heart-breaking blow to Turley, for the big man had struck out 11 Dodger hitters as 33,224 hung breathlessly on Brooklyn's back-to-the wall battle to remain alive in the annual classic. Until the 10th, Turley had given those grim-faced Dodgers only three hits.

But then, with Junior Gilliam straining off second from a walk and Duke Snider at first on an intentional pass, old Jackie walloped the big blow which gave Labine a seven-hit victory in what was only his third complete game in five years.

It was a tense pitching duel under chill blue skies as the burly Turley and the slender Labine battled scorelessly through nine well-pitched innings, following Yankee Don Larsen's perfect no-hitter Monday.

NOT SINCE 1913
Only once before, in the second game of the 1913 series when the Giants scored three runs in the 10th to beat the Athletics 3-0, had there been a scoreless tie for nine frames.

Labine set those hard-swinging Yankees down in order in the top of the 10th and then Turley went to the hill again. The big fellow, who had struck out 11 men to that point, retired Labine but then paved the way for his own defeat as he issued a walk to wiry Junior Gilliam.

Pee Wee Reese tried to beat out a hunt but was out at first as Gilliam moved up to second. Then it was the menacing Snider stepping up to the plate and Turley was ordered to give him an intentional pass, with first base open.

That brought up Robinson, the veteran third baseman who may call this his final year. The count went to one strike and one ball. Then Robinson added another storied line to his baseball saga with a chip-down drive that the leaping Gilliam raced home with the winning run.

It also wrapped up for the 30-year-old Labine the first World Series shutout at Ebbets Field since 1920, when Burleigh Grimes of these same embattled Dodgers beat Cleveland, 3-0—and there have been 23 World Series games played

SAW SOMETHING TO REMEMBER

Larsen Earns Hall of Fame With First Perfect No-Hitter

BY BILL RAYNER
Times Sports Writer

NEW YORK CITY—Yankee Stadium was a deserted, empty place today as the madman that is the 1956 World Series moved across the river to Ebbets Field, Brooklyn.

But, in spite of the venue change and Brooklyn's clawing, stubborn comeback today, Yankee Stadium, which immortalized such sluggers as Babe Ruth, Lou Gehrig, Bill Dickey and Joe DiMaggio, made room in its trophy room for a pitching performance of such incredible brilliance that a special shrine must be made for it.

Don Larsen, a 27-year-old, six-foot-four, 220-pound, comic-book reading, fun-loving pitcher retired 27 Brooklyn Dodgers in order as the New York Yankees won, 2-0, the first no-hit game pitched ever in the World Series and only the second perfect game ever in major league history.

Larsen's masterpiece gave the Yankees a three-game sweep of the pennant at the Stadium and the 3-2 lead over the Brooklyn in the best-of-seven series which they lost in today's thriller.

WIFE SUES SERIES HERO LARSEN; HE SENDS $420

NEW YORK (AP).—A few hours after his estranged wife started a state Supreme Court action Monday aimed at withholding his world series money, pitcher Don (No-Hit) Larsen of New York Yankees sent her $420.

The action, lodged by Vivian A. Larsen a few hours before her husband pitched the first perfect game in world series history as Yankees defeated Dodgers 2-0, claimed the pitcher owed her $420 in back support payments.

The court order, returnable Oct. 16, requires Larsen, the New York Yankee Baseball Club and Ford Frick, commissioner of baseball, to show cause why Larsen's world series money should not be withheld from him and set aside for support payments.

In papers filed by Mrs. Larsen, she said she and the pitcher were married April 23, 1955, and that that he deserted her a few months later. She said he is required by a court order signed by Supreme Court Justice Henry C. Greenberg on July 16, 1956, to pay her $60 weekly support.

HOW DODGERS CAME BACK

PLAY BY PLAY BY UNITED PRESS

FIRST INNING
Yankees—Bauer looped a 2 and 2 pitch into short center field for a single.

Collins took a ball and then hit into a double play, Gilliam to Reese to Hodges.

Mantle grounded to Gilliam, on a 3 and 0 pitch.

No runs, one hit, no errors, none left.

Dodgers—Johnny Kucks was warming up in the Yankee bullpen before Turley even made his first pitch.

Martin fielded Gilliam's bouncer in front of second base and made a neat, tumbling throw for the putout.

Reese worked the count to 3 and 2 and then went down swinging.

Snider lined a 2 and 2 pitch into left center field for a single, the Dodgers' first hit since

Robinson lined a 1 and 2 pitch to McDougald.

SECOND INNING
Yankees—Berra lined a 1 and 0 pitch off the right-field wall but was held to a single when Furillo played the carom perfectly.

Slaughter bounced to Gilliam, who made an underhand toss to Reese, forcing Berra, but there was no play on Slaughter, who reached first on the fielder's choice.

13 Holiday Fatalities in B.C.; Boy Slain by Pal Accidentally

The violent death toll for B.C. stood at 13 today as British Columbians, together with the rest of Canada returned to work after the Thanksgiving weekend.

In the whole of Canada there were 71 holiday fatalities two less than the 1955 total.

Drownings and traffic mishaps made up eight of the B.C. deaths. Five persons were drowned and traffic claimed three.

The other five tragedies in the province ranged from suffocation to accidental shooting.

Richard Coates 29 of New Westminster became the Greater Vancouver area's 45th domestic gas victim of the year Monday afternoon. Coates was found dead by his wife and seven-year-old son when they returned to the family home after being out for several hours.

Hudson G. Jones of Vancouver drowned at Ladner. His death turned a family outing into a Sunday afternoon tragedy.

The 76-year-old man was walking on Gilley's wharf, near River Road, when he suffered a dizzy spell and toppled into the water. He had been on an outing with his wife, his son, his daughter-in-law and his grandchildren.

A 14-year-old Kamloops district boy was killed when struck by a bullet from a .30-30 rifle at noon Monday.

Royal Canadian Mounted Police at Kamloops said Danny Stewart of Westsyde, was accidentally slain by a 14-year-old friend. They declined to release the name of the boy, and said he was in hospital being treated for shock.

The youths were cleaning the rifle in a bedroom of the Stewart home when the accident occurred.

Andy Manuel, 70-year-old Indian, drowned late Sunday when he fell into the South Thompson river while crossing a bridge that separates Kamloops from a nearby Indian reservation.

Sharon De Grose, two months old, suffocated in her crib in her Vancouver home shortly before midnight Saturday.

VICTORIA FAR BEHIND IN DONATIONS TO CHEST

Victoria's percentage of objective collected as the Community Chest drive went into its second week lags far behind other Western Canada cities, a survey showed today.

As of noon, $46,760 had been collected toward the $220,000 objective, to score 21.2 per cent.

Competing Western Canada cities recorded contributions running between 30 and 40 per cent of quotas.

Edmonton had 36.6 per cent; Vancouver 33.5 per cent; Winnipeg 31.7 per cent.

But optimism prevails at Chest headquarters here.

Said Chest president R. B. Wilson: "Receipts so far show that both firms and individuals are actually giving, in most cases, more than last year. If this trend continues, we will reach the objective."

He urged advance group canvassers to complete their calls as quickly as possible.

MARGARET ALMOST CRUSHED

Tanganyika Mob Breaks Police Cordon to Get Near Princess

DAR ES SALAAM, Tanganyika (AP)—A surging mob broke through police cordons today and staged a near-riot when Princess Margaret stepped from her car to watch tribal dances here.

Members of her party joined regular police and special constables in forming a human chain around the princess to fight off hundreds of excited Africans struggling to touch her clothing.

The mob completely overran the dancers lined up to meet the princess.

Wives of British officials joined in protecting the princess. Linking hands with them were administrative officers in ceremonial white dress uniforms with dress swords and white pith helmets.

Screaming African women in multi-colored headcloths were to the fore in the frenzied crowds.

The cordon protecting the princess slowly sought its way back to the Royal car, and Princess Margaret slipped inside.

PRINCESS UNWARE
One of those who formed a cordon round the princess said she was "quite unperturbed—she did not realize how near she was to being crushed."

Administrative officers and their wives in the royal procession of cars behind the princess fortunately saw the danger. They piled out of their cars and joined in the cordon."

Ending their annual meeting employees receive three weeks in Vancouver Saturday, delegates passed a resolution seeking three weeks vacation with pay after five years' service.

They turned down a motion recommending that the provincial government grant three weeks vacation with pay after five years' service.

At present, government employees receive three weeks after 10 years' service.

Other resolutions asked for improved long service bonuses, overtime compensation, semi-monthly instead of monthly salary payments, and the compulsory government grant three weeks vacation with pay after five years' service.

Dulles Backs Anglo-French Plan for Suez

DUKE OF KENT
... 21 today

A MAN, NOW

Duke's Party Smart But Not Splashy

By FERN RICH
LONDON (Reuters) — The Duke of Kent, seventh in succession to the throne, was 21 today.

His mother, the Duchess of Kent, tonight is giving him a "coming of age" birthday party at Coppins, the family home in Buckinghamshire. As far as London's smart set is concerned it will be the party of the year.

The duchess is not wealthy, so the party will not be a "splashy" affair. The Queen, a cousin of the duke, has accepted an invitation. Other royalty will be present too to dine with the young duke and drink his health in champagne.

DUCHESS INJURED
His pretty 20-year-old cousin, Princess Elizabeth of Yugoslavia, and her mother, Princess Olga, arrived in England today.

The duchess sent her car—with the duke's British racing drivers badge on the front—for her royal guests but did not meet them personally because she is suffering from a sprained ankle.

When the "private" royal dinner is over, the duke's young friends will take over. About 200 have been invited "to a small party."

The duke now is a second lieutenant in the Royal Scots Guards and some of his would-be advisers have been suggesting recently that he should be given a position in public life.

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — State Secretary Dulles said today there is little chance of settling the Suez problem as long as it is possible for a nation to use the waterway as an instrument of its national policy.

Dulles told the UN Security Council this is the heart of the problem and that the first step should be an acceptance by all parties of the principle that a system should be set up to ensure against any such action.

He did not reject a proposal made by Egypt Monday for the establishment of a UN negotiating body to work out a system of co-operation for the operation of the canal. He called the Egyptian move "constructive," but indicated this did not go far enough.

BACKS LONDON PLAN

Dulles stood firmly behind a British-French proposal which called for negotiations on the basis of the London proposals for international control of the canal. He said he would vote for the British-French plan.

On the basic principle of guarantees against use of the canal as an instrument of national policy, the secretary of state said:

"If Egypt accepts that simple and rudimentary principle of justice, then I believe that the subsidiary problems can be resolved. If that problem is re-fused, then it is difficult to foresee a useful role for a negotiable body."

Dulles spoke as the council wound up its opening round of policy statements and prepared to go into private sessions for detailed discussions.

Dulles said the debate in the council had been on the whole temperate and constructive, but that Soviet Foreign Minister Dmitri Shepilov had been responsible for some jarring notes.

He mentioned specifically Shepilov's charge that U.S. monopolies were trying to gain control of the Suez under the guise of giving financial aid for improving the waterway.

Egypt and Russia told the emergency council session Monday there could never be agreement on the basis of the Anglo-French plan submitted Friday. Instead, they suggested a UN committee be appointed to set up a working agreement under which Egypt would guarantee free passage to all ships but still retain control of the waterway.

Russia, which wields the veto power in the council, also opposed the plan—and in much harsher terms.

Britain and France had hoped Fawzi would come up with a definite plan which would at least provide a start in negotiations.

But his lengthy speech was vague. He said Egypt was "willing to negotiate" but offered no clear-cut basis for talks.

Russia, with a number of cutting remarks about British and French "colonialism," reiterated a plan which the West has already turned down.

Ottawa Blasts Anew at Unfair Foreign Wheat Sales by U.S.

OTTAWA (CP) — Canada has tempted to cut deeper into the American wheat giveaway program.

A trade department spokesman said Monday a "strong" note was sent to the United States state department when it became apparent that the United States in selling wheat for local currencies, was forcing importers to agree to buy additional fixed quantities of American wheat at some future time.

7 CASES OF TYPHOID DETECTED NEAR OTTAWA

OTTAWA (CP) — Seven cases of typhoid fever have been diagnosed in this district, Dr. C. E. L. Morrow, Osgoode township medical health officer, said today.

Two men previously diagnosed as typhoid patients are confined to hospital here. In addition, typhoid has been diagnosed in two residents of Chertville, Ont., about 28 miles south of here, where they are in hospital. Three others with typhoid are in hospital at Winchester.

Dr. Morrow said then that typhoid symptoms first were noticed among a group of men who attended a dinner at a hotel in Winchester Sept. 9.

Authorities have isolated the well at the hotel.

Victoria Accountancy Firm To Join Vancouver Company

Rapid business expansion in British Columbia has brought about merger of the Victoria accountancy firm of Ismay Boisson Dunn & Co., with a Vancouver firm, it was announced today.

Merger with Helliwell MacLachlan & Co., Vancouver, will be effective November 1.

The three-partner firm, comprised of senior partner G. F. "Pat" Dunn, John Nation and Harold Craven, was founded in 1910. It is one of the west coast's oldest accountancy firms.

"We feel the merger will help us keep up with the rapid business expansion in the province," said Mr. Dunn, former Victoria Chamber of Commerce president.

Offices will be in Victoria, Vancouver, Calgary and Vernon. Affiliation will increase personnel to 100 persons.

Mr. Dunn leaves shortly for Toronto, Montreal and Quebec the American wheat giveaway program.

The United States, he said, is attempting to tie up the importing country for a long period of time. This could prove extremely damaging to Canada's export program.

Aided by huge sums voted by the American Congress, the United States government, in attempting to rid itself of surplus wheat, has given some away, bartered other amounts and has made sales for local currencies used mostly for defense and development works in the importing country.

Canada sells wheat for dollars and short-term credit only. Some Prairie suggestions that the Canadian government compete against the United States by selling for local currencies which could not be converted into dollars have been rejected by the federal government.

The main government argument is that, if it ever attempted to compete against the American treasury, Canada would be bound to lose. The Canadian federal treasury could not match the huge sums available for export subsidy in the United States.

Nine Poznan Accused Held Up as 'Victims'

POZNAN, Poland (Reuters) — A defence lawyer pointed today at nine Poles accused of taking part in the Poznan riots last June 28 and declared: "They, too, are victims of this day."

"There were not only the dead and wounded," he said. "The men before this and other courts also were victims."

Witold Trojanowski, the lawyer, demanded that the court quash charges against two 20-year-old youths, Stanislaw Kaufmann and Janusz Bieganski, accused of aiding an armed attack on security police headquarters by giving ammunition to others. Both have admitted being in possession of cartridges.

Trojanowski told the court: "Remember, the 28th of June was not a normal day and these were not normal crimes." He called for a verdict "for which the future will be grateful."

Monday, in the first of the trials arising from the June "bread and freedom" riots, three defendants received unexpectedly mild sentences—ranging from four to 4½ years—for the fatal beating of a security policeman during the disorders.

In another courtroom Monday two defendants denounced each other's testimony in a bitter scene.

Janusz Kulas, 19, who admitted last week that he led a procession in the riots, testified that co-defendant Mikolaj Pac-Pomarnicki had tried "to whitewash himself and incriminate others" in his evidence.

Pac-Pomarnicki testified last week that during a raid on an

Plan of Desperation?

THE UNION OF B.C. MUNICIPALITIES' proposal to institute a new service tax on residents who do not own homes and consequently do not pay direct real property taxes, has one virtue.

It shows how desperate the municipalities are for revenue.

Apart from that, it revives all the old arguments against the road and poll tax, as Mayor Scurrah and Ald. Millard Mooney of Victoria have pointed out.

When a person pays rent, he contributes to the taxes on the property he occupies as surely as he contributes to the cost of government through Mr. Bennett's 5 per cent sales tax. Admittedly the payment is indirect in the case of rent, but it is nevertheless there.

In essence the U.B.C.M. suggestion says to the individual who does not own his own home or other real estate: Your landlord will see that you meet your share of taxes; your municipal authorities will see that you pay again because your previous contribution to municipal revenue is not officially recognized.

At one time a special levy against the tenant might have been justified. In those days when tenants could bargain strategically for low rents, the owner of a house or apartment was at a disadvantage.

He could not pack his bag and walk out of a municipality if taxes were too onerous. He was stuck with his investment in the building and could avoid municipal charges only if he could make a satisfactory sale or was prepared to sacrifice his holdings.

Today's rental levels and the demand for housing seem to have eliminated that feature of owner-tenant relationships. The owner, in most cases, is finding rental property desirable as a revenue source—as he should.

The municipal suggestion may, however, draw attention to the point made by Reeve C. A. P. Murison of North Cowichan a few days ago. The reeve argued that some division of charges should be made by which property paid for the services from which it benefited—or which increased its value—and people should pay for services to them, such as health, welfare and schools. The case is valid.

But if we interpret Reeve Murison correctly, he was not suggesting that renters should be required to pay twice for general services—once through an arbitrary direct levy and again through the indirectness of rent.

There are excellent reasons, of course, to encourage the ownership of homes. Citizens with their savings so invested add stability to a community.

But when the U.B.C.M. considers the matter further, perhaps it will recall the fact that renters will be stuck in part at least for the $28 bonus Mr. Bennett has promised homeowners already. Admittedly municipalities can expect no benefit from this distribution of taxpayers' money. They can, however, find little justice in saddling the renter, already injured by the provincial scheme, with another unfair penalty.

The Poles Speak Up

THE CURRENT TRIALS OF rioters in Poznan, Poland, are taking a turn seldom seen in courts behind the iron curtain. The accused men, charged with various crimes in connection with the outbreak last June, have turned on their accusers.

Confessions have been repudiated, police have been accused of Gestapo methods. The latter charges, indeed, have been so substantiated that several policemen have been placed under arrest.

In scenes perhaps unprecedented in communist courts, the workers have launched into impassioned speeches before the judges. They have sought to justify their actions in attacking government buildings, burning army tanks, and storming police and radio stations.

This is a new development, and one that bears watching. Here are prisoners who are asserting their rights, who are publicly defying officials who forced confessions from them, who are demanding the consideration that should be given free citizens. It is heartening to find that such a spirit survives after years of communist rule and to know that it must be shared by many thousands of Poles.

Like the East Berlin riots that secured benefits for the city's workers, the Polish uprising may yet achieve some gain, despite the fact that it was so quickly and ruthlessly quelled. If nothing else, it has revived recognition of the fact that men can be pushed only so far by the state, then at any cost they must assert themselves.

For Observance, Not Convenience

WITHIN A FEW DAYS THE Canadian Chamber of Commerce in convention at Quebec City will be considering, among other questions, a proposal to change observance of Dominion Day to a movable date. Instead of remembering the birth date of our nation on July 1 each year, we would commemorate it on the first Monday of July in order to make a weekend holiday.

It is to be hoped that nothing will come of this frivolous proposal. July 1 is a solemn historical date, one to be observed in some deeper spirit than that of mere vacationing, one to be kept in commemoration rather than considered as merely a convenient adjunct to a weekend.

The United States does not juggle July 4; France does not tamper with its national observance of July 14. The same arguments that apply to keeping December 25 and November 11 on their proper dates should apply to July 1. Observance of the birth of our country should not be made merely a convenience for pick-nickers or commercial ventures. Let Dominion Day stand.

With Mortar and Pestle

THE PUBLIC HAS BECOME SO accustomed to an extremely high degree of accuracy on the part of pharmacists that it has come to take this service for granted. Yet such a reputation cannot have been achieved by accident. Thorough training and a strict code of ethics and performance, enforced by the profession itself, have gained modern pharmacy this enviable position in every community.

This week is National Pharmacy Week, a week during which the men and women behind the glass partition in your drug store try to bring to public attention the job they are doing. It is an important job, bearing directly on the health and comfort of the individual and the community. Without the existing and well-earned confidence of the people in their pharmacists there would be a serious gap in the chain of healing that includes physician, pharmacist, nurse and patient.

It is well occasionally, as at this time, to give a thought to a vital service we tend to take so casually, and to render credit where it is due.

Cricket Is Going Broke

A FEW MONTHS AGO CERTAIN small cricket clubs in Britain complained that the high cost of cricket balls was working a grave hardship on them.

Now comes word that even first class cricket is going broke.

Cricket—and say it softly—is a business. That is, the game as played in first class counties where professionals display their talents six days a week.

Quite apart from the fact that "Cricket can be played only under weather conditions that are not typical of the average British summer," as one analysis puts it, the matches are too long.

Gates—and cricket is included in the entertainment industry—are falling. Professional cricket does not pay, say the authorities. The only kind that does pay "is amateur cricket—and the price of balls threatens smaller clubs in that branch.

Yet it is inconceivable that the game which gave its name as a synonym for gentlemanly conduct is due for extinction.

Surely cricket will last as long as the instinct of fair play. But, looking at spectator sport generally, how long will that be?

FROM WASHINGTON By WALTER LIPPMANN

This Much Is Agreed

THE differences about Suez between the United States and its allies, Great Britain and France, do not really stem from such views as Americans may have on "colonialism." They stem from a differing practical judgment as to how to deal wisely and effectively with Col. Nasser's seizure of the Canal Company. There is no difference on the fundamental point that all the nations of the world have indubitable rights in the use of the canal, and that these rights must be protected by a regime established under an international treaty. The question of colonialism does not arise. For Egypt is not a colony and nobody is claiming that the canal zone is anyone's colonial property.

Lippmann

What the United States, together with the British and French, is claiming is that the rights which are pledged by the treaty of 1888 shall be made secure.

How substantial are our actual differences it is difficult to say precisely. For none of the three governments was prepared for Nasser's coup. None had a considered policy. Each reacted at the outset rather by its reflexes than by reflection.

Since then, the three foreign ministers have met twice at big international conferences. But they have been, it would seem, too preoccupied and too hurried to make sure that they understood one another.

Our differences are not clear or sharp. But they seem to turn on two points, neither of which has anything to do with colonialism. The one point has to do with military force. The other has to do with a policy to follow in working towards a solution.

Use of Force

It is not true, as has been suggested abroad, that the United States is unconditionally opposed to a resort to force, or that responsible American opinion has been opposed to the little mobilization of forces in the eastern Mediterranean. Washington has been troubled and even frightened at what it thought it was hearing from London and Paris about the objectives for which these forces might be used.

Nobody has opposed, indeed almost all would approve, having forces available as a precautionary measure to prevent anti-Western riots such as occurred in Cairo in 1952.

Nor would there be American opposition to the use of force, even in spite of a Soviet veto, if Nasser closed the canal or violated the rights which are guaranteed under the Treaty of 1888.

The U.S. drew back from the suggestion, which has been at least semi-official, that these forces might be used to overthrow Nasser. That, in our view, would be an illegal and immoral use of force.

For Negotiation

Americans drew back too from the idea that military force might be used to impose on Nasser the kind of regime which the 18 nations have proposed. In the American view, these proposals cannot be made into an ultimatum and should be treated as negotiable.

Those of us who take this view believe that it rests on a correct appraisal of the military and political situation. We believe that military intervention is almost certain to entangle Britain and France in a prolonged guerrilla war, as in Algeria and Cyprus, if Egypt has the backing of the Soviet Union, of India, and of virtually all of Asia.

We think such a war would be easy to start and hard to finish.

From this it follows, so we believe, that a settlement must be sought by negotiation, and that the key to a successful negotiation is to work towards an international regime for the canal which has the support of the Soviet Union and of India.

Vital Interests

There is little doubt that the vital interests of India are identical with our own, and that they call for the free use on reasonable terms of an efficient canal.

As for the Soviet Union, though it has no such vital interest in the canal or, even perhaps, in a workable settlement, it is on record as supporting the Indian plan.

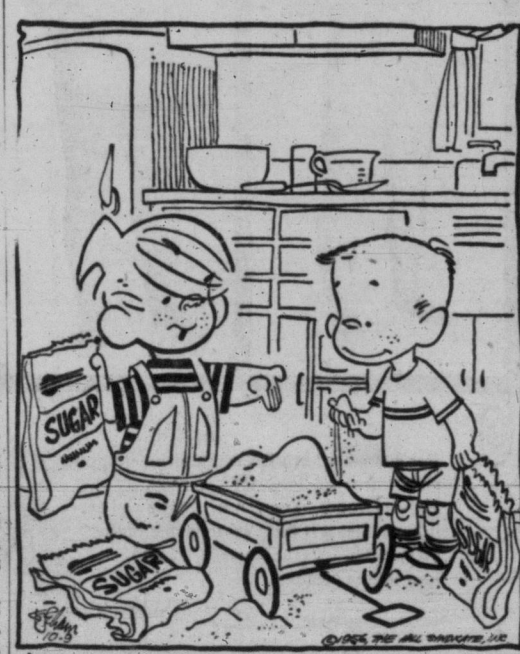

The United States view, it is evident, differs from the view of those who believe that the prestige of the West will collapse in the Middle East and in Africa if we avoid a showdown with Nasser, if we do not overturn him or at least punish him.

Washington's answer is that the circumstances are not now right for a showdown, and that no showdown should be had unless and until Nasser has committed a gross and deliberate violation of international rights.

For the time being, if we can negotiate a settlement, the principle will have been vindicated that the canal is an international waterway, and that it is not under the unfettered control of Egypt alone.

Ferment in the Satellites

AT LEAST one thing is reasonably sure about the mysterious journeys of Khrushchev to Belgrade and Marshal Tito to Yalta. The prime cause of this commotion in the Soviet bloc lies in Poland rather than in Yugoslavia. Here in Washington, the Polish situation is regarded as so significant that it has now become the subject of a really major behind-the-scenes policy dispute. At bottom, the point at issue is whether the Eisenhower administration really meant anything at all by the talk of "liberation" that sounded so brave in the last election.

Joseph

By all the signs, the Poles are now tending to claim a real measure of independence of the Kremlin. Two points are in debate here.

First, is it wise to try to encourage this tendency and how best can this be done?

And second, if encouragement is in fact wise, how can it be given without angering Sen. William Knowland's wing of the Republican party, whose members would even like to see an American break with Yugoslavia itself?

Meanwhile, the Polish situation is no less interesting because the Washington policy makers cannot make up their minds about what, if anything, to do about it.

Signs Were Clear

Secretary of State John Foster Dulles and a great many other wise persons of course pointed out long ago that the Kremlin's downgrading of Stalin and reunion with Tito was provoking a ferment in the satellites. The signs of this ferment were of course clear, even before the famous Poznan riots blew the lid off in Poland.

But it is not generally realized that from the Kremlin's standpoint, the post-Poznan developments have been even more serious than the riots themselves. Immediately after the riots, Marshal Bulganin was sent post-haste to Warsaw to read the Polish comrades a lecture. Poland must not go too far and too fast, Bulganin warned, with the process that passes for "liberalization" in the Soviet sphere.

Bulganin's aim, beyond doubt, was to strengthen the Polish Communist faction centering around the Russo-Polish Marshal Rokossovsky—the faction that follows the old line of unquestioning obedience to the Kremlin.

Bulganin was nonetheless unable to shake the majority support of Premier Cyrankiewicz. The Kremlin therefore tried the highly novel expedient of appeasing its Polish satellites. A moratorium was granted on Poland's outstanding debt to the Soviets.

In itself, this was no small gesture, for the official total of the debt was 800 million rubles. But in addition, a new credit of 100 million rubles in gold and raw materials was also granted.

Yet the Polish ferment continued unabated. An extraordinary freedom of discussion was permitted in the press; and Warsaw newspapers are now advocating a complete end of press censorship, except with respect to military subjects.

A drive for something almost like party free elections to the Polish Parliament, the Sejm, was launched with impunity and still continues.

Increasing Contacts

"Worst" of all, there were and are increasing Polish-Western contacts. In a very quiet but meaningful way, carefully vague hints have even been dropped that a day may come when there will be need for Western sympathy and support for Polish independence.

It can be seen also why the Kremlin has reacted rather sharply to these trends in the satellites. The symptoms of ferment are not limited to Poland. They have also appeared, in lesser degree, in Hungary and Rumania.

As a stern warning, therefore, the more conservative group in the Kremlin leadership circulated to the satellites the now-celebrated memorandum on Yugoslavia (and by implication on all other satellites hankering to imitate the Yugoslavians). In this paper, the Yugoslavs were condemned as not being true "Leninists," and Marshal Bulganin was even denounced by name for having said the opposite. The meetings with Tito were a necessary sequel. Such is the background. It is a hopeful background, revealing serious weaknesses in the Soviet bloc. The trouble is, however, that the Kremlin always seems to find an easy way to exploit the West's weaknesses, whereas exploiting Soviet weaknesses appears to be a much more difficult proposition.

Below the Surface

From The Times, London

A COINCIDENCE that will not fail to be noted by future historians of science has led to the holding this week of two significant opening ceremonies. The Postmaster-General opened on Tuesday the transatlantic telephone cable by conversations with the president of the American Telephone and Telegraph Company in New York and with the Canadian Minister of Transport in Ottawa.

Simultaneously, within a few hours, the Premier of British Columbia switched a bulk supply of electricity from the mainland to Vancouver Island. Thus ease of speech across the world and exchange of power between places divided by sea are on the way to becoming ordinary, everyday practice.

Next year, if all goes well, work in linking the electricity networks of Britain and France will begin, thus bringing nearer the time when we can boil our kettles on current from the Alps and our neighbours may cook their dinners with atomic power from Calder Hall.

These advances in the harnessing of nature to human convenience would, in the past, have aroused more enthusiasm than they do in an age satiated with scientific progress. This week's ceremonies, though impressive, lacked the drama that marked the first triumphs of the deep-sea cables.

Novely a century ago was reinforced by ignorance, even among the experts.

Some argued that a cable would not sink to the fathoms-deep ocean bed and should be buoyed all the way across to America. Men fell on their knees at the shore end, so moved were they by the delirium of the hour.

Repetition of such scenes would not become a generation matured to material progress and only too thankful when it is seen to be aimed at wholly peaceful ends. What may be observed in this more sober atmosphere is that these latest achievements are the result of remarkable teamwork between public authorities and private firms in three countries.

"Thanks to them we shall be able to speak with as much ease and certainty to Washington as we do now to Paris. The atmospheric interruptions of wireless telephony will be avoided. The new link will, moreover, pick up the wireless telephone on the western seaboard of America and thus improve clarity and continuity of speech between, for example, London and Sydney.

These are merely indications of how a new system which affects all Europe and America will transform the international telephone. Whether present experiments will crown these achievements by making transatlantic television possible is another matter. But even of this there is some hope.

REPORT FROM OTTAWA By VICTOR MACKIE

The P.M. and Popov

PRIME Minister St. Laurent in his first formal press conference in 14 months made it plain that he is allergic to big black headlines that some sections of the press of Canada are prone to put on stories emanating from Ottawa. At one point in the conference during the rapid fire questions and answers that developed over the now famous Popov case the prime minister endeavoured without much success to lecture the newspapermen on the handling of news.

Mackie

What about the Popov case, he was asked: Why had the government withheld from the public the fact that it had asked Russia to recall a second secretary in the Russian embassy at Ottawa, Genadi Popov for attempting to bribe a civil servant employed by the RCAF?

Mr. St. Laurent bristled. He had been waiting for these questions and obviously had made up his mind long ago on how to handle them.

"We owed it to the Canadian people when we found an official of the Russian embassy doing improper things to ask he be recalled and he was recalled," he said.

Too Indiscreet

No he did not regard James Staples (the civil servant involved) as a traitor. He was just a "little too indiscreet to be in a position where he had access to secret documents." Mr. St. Laurent did not think any damage had been done to Canada's security.

"We did not think what had happened here was worth making into an international incident," he said.

The implication was clear to the reporters. Mr. St. Laurent believed that had he made the incident public it would have been "blown up" into an international incident by the publicity.

The prime minister said he did not want a situation such as had developed in London over the "shoplifting" case.

Here the prime minister took time out to lecture newspapermen that have a habit of using "sensational" headlines.

"Some portions of the press put startling headlines on small items of news," he said. "That sort of thing does not do any good," he suggested.

Pressed as to whether he would have made the incident public at a later date Mr. St. Laurent snapped, "I did not intend to make the matter public."

A reporter enquired if there had been other members of the Russian embassy ejected from Canada. "How do we know whether or not there have been several such cases," he asked.

'I Am Responsible'

"No other cases have been brought to my attention," retorted Mr. St. Laurent. "It was my decision not to make the matter public. I am responsible to my own conscience."

The prime minister added that if the Canadian people did not like what he had done in this case they would have the opportunity at the next general election to register their displeasure by not voting for Liberal candidates.

Mr. St. Laurent was obviously nettled at the reporters' persistence in questioning him on why he had not made the matter public when Mr. Popov was ordered out of the country last July. It did not become public until a Mr. Pat Walsh of the Pan-Canadian Anti-Communist League disclosed it in a brief to the government demanding closer surveillance over the Russian embassy's activities.

Snapped Mr. St. Laurent, "Mr. Walsh likes publicity."

Later the prime minister explained that with efforts being made to bring the West and Communist countries into closer accord he did not think the announcement of the Popov case would improve the international atmosphere.

Twenty Years Over a Hot Stove

SEVERAL years ago a small and interesting pamphlet arrived in our house. Nobody seemed to know where it came from, but it listed wedding anniversaries and, if memory serves, carried suggestions on gifts suitable for each.

Its appearance under our roof was completely casual—probably came in the mail with advertising circulars. I was told. And just as casually it used to show up each October on the coffee table or smoker. That was an odd coincidence. I was married in October.

Stott

Until its arrival I had believed there were only three definite anniversaries—silver after 25 years of travel in double harness, golden after 50 years, and diamond after 60.

How wrong I was. The little pamphlet informed me that there were—and again I'm trusting an unreliable memory—a paper anniversary, a wooden anniversary, a tin anniversary, and so on. That pleased me.

SOMETHING IN PAPER

I remember distinctly the flourish with which I presented the little lady with a copy of The Victoria Daily Times on our paper milestone. When the year turned up wood, I went spendy and bought a bunch of salad bowls, to which the scent of garlic and cupboard dust now clings. The year we were due for something in tin, a friend brought over a galvanized bucket, which is still handy after we've lifted the pump for winter at Shawmin.

About that time the little pamphlet of October blooming disappeared, quite as mysteriously as it arrived. The gift suggestions were beginning to invite pretty substantial expenditure and times were hard.

I have no more idea of where the list went than the boss of our house has of where it came from originally.

So another October rolls around and I have no pamphlet to guide me. It isn't time yet for something in silver, but, recalling the arithmetic progression of expense listed for each succeeding year in the gift suggestions, the tribute to the better half of our combination should be fairly handsome.

I guess all husbands have the same difficulty I have in making a proper selection. Wives always know exactly what to buy for husbands—like the time in our house when the little lady decided I ought to have half a dozen nice cups and saucers because they'd be so handy for Tom 'n' Jerry at Christmas.

Once before, under similar circumstances, I allowed my imagination full play and bought the boss of our house a pretty magnificent present. It was a brand new Swedish buck-saw, with fine tempered blade and tubular handle painted bright yellow.

At the time I figured it was the best buck-saw on the market. Light, too. Even a child could handle it. With a piece of equipment like that I thought any woman would find sawing a pleasure. Not only that, it promised to give a housewife the exercise for those muscles which are too often neglected by a woman around the home.

I didn't quite understand the restraint of her enthusiasm when I presented the shiny new tool. In the years since, I've been forced to the reluctant conclusion that a buck-saw wasn't exactly what she wanted. She hasn't cut a stick with it yet.

I don't plan to make the same mistake again. This year, now, I've got my eye on something good. I can buy a second-hand outboard for less than a hundred bucks. That looks to be the answer to this anniversary quandary. What more could a woman want than a three-horse, hardly-used second-hand outboard?

DOUBLE PURPOSE

And it could be a lot more than a mere show of appreciation to her. The boss of our house, who has courage to burn in most crises, is scared of the Strait. For any sea running with waves above a foot-and-one-half she wants to be aboard the Queen Mary. If she doesn't get over that phobia soon, it'll stay with her all her life.

So if she gets a three-horse slightly-used outboard from me, and it costs nearly a hundred bucks, she'll more or less have to go out on the water and conquer her nervousness.

Yep, it would have a double purpose, emotionally gratifying as a symbol of appreciation for her companionship and character building as it forced her to overcome a dread of the water.

Of course, maybe I could use it a little, too, just on Saturdays, Sundays, holidays and after work on weekdays.

If she could sort of put a hundred bucks my way, it looks as if she could get herself a wonderful present. If she doesn't see it that way, she's still fond of those top two candies with coconut on them that come in the dollar-thirty-five boxes.

Nasser Proving He Can Run Canal

PORT SAID, Egypt (UP)—Despite the gloomy predictions of Western pilots who quit their jobs on the Suez Canal, traffic still is moving smoothly through the waterway.

Egypt however is receiving little cash benefit from it.

Since July 26 when President Gamal Abdel Nasser nationalized the old Suez Canal Co., 2,865 ships have moved through the 101-mile waterway but only an estimated 40 per cent of them have paid fees to Egypt.

The remaining 60 per cent, mainly British and French ships, still pay their dues to the old company's accounts in London and Paris. Egypt cannot touch these funds.

DECLINE IN TRAFFIC

There also has been a slight decline in the flow of shipping through the canal since the walkout of Western employees. But indications are that the tide gradually is rising again.

The Egyptians claim they have solved their pilot problem through rapid recruitment and training of foreign and local mariners. But most of their local pilots still are working incredibly long hours to get the ships through.

These old company pilots often work 15 hours or more at a stretch to take a ship the whole length of the canal, snatch a few hours sleep, and then take another convoy back again.

The first few new pilots recruited have been allowed to take ships through the canal alone after training only a few weeks. The old company often required years of training.

According to the Egyptians, foreign pilots now include 10 Americans, 15 Russians, 13 Germans, 11 Yugoslavs, 30 Greeks, 11 Poles, five Norwegians, two Spaniards, two Rumanians, seven Italians, one Swede and one Lithuanian.

In the past few days the accident rate has increased slightly with three minor groundings reported in less than 48 hours.

MAN'S NUDE, BEATEN BODY FOUND AMONG WEIRD PETS

CLEVELAND (AP)—Detectives today questioned drinking companions of a 38-year-old man whose nude, beaten body was found in a secluded suburban house containing a menagerie of pets, including a caged monkey that wore shorts.

The mysterious death of Frank Alvin Lewis resulted from "violence to the abdominal wall," coroner Samuel Gerber ruled.

A theory that someone had jumped upon Lewis after he was knocked down was advanced by Jerome Dixon, police chief of Mayfield village.

The death occurred Sunday night on the estate of Miss Florence Keller, widely-known breeder of prize-winning dachshunds. Lewis was her kennel manager.

You can't go ALL-OUT

If you feel ALL-IN

These days most people work under pressure, worry more, sleep less. This strain on body and brain makes physical fitness easier to lose—harder to regain. Today's tense living, lowered resistance, overwork, worry—any of these may affect normal kidney action. When kidneys get out of order, excess acids and wastes remain in the system. Then backache, disturbed rest, that "tired-out" heavy-headed feeling often follow. That's the time to take Dodd's Kidney Pills. Dodd's stimulate the kidneys to normal action. Then you feel better—sleep better—work better. Ask for Dodd's Kidney Pills at any drug counter.

IOWA for this traditionally Republican state.

DES MOINES (AP)—The presidential campaign in Iowa—the heart of the politically important Corn Belt—is shaping up largely as a contest between the personal popularity of President Eisenhower and a dislike for his farm policies.

A lot of farmers—and they make up the unknown factor for the election—say they "like" the president but are dissatisfied with his farm program. This apparent paradox complicates the outlook for Eisenhower.

Republican leaders agree there is strong dissatisfaction among farmers but say there is not enough to give the state to Stevenson.

REPUBLICANS HOPEFUL

Eisenhower won Iowa by a majority of 237,000 out of 1,259,000 votes in 1952. Republican state chairman Don Pierson, while conceding the president will lose votes this year, predicts a victory margin of at least 100,000 votes.

But Jake More, the Democratic state chairman, said he sees great similarity between this campaign and the one in 1948 when Iowa—to surprise and consternation of Republicans—went for Harry S. Truman in his surprise victory over Thomas E. Dewey. Then, as now, there was dissatisfaction over Republican farm policies.

OKLAHOMA

KINGFISHER, Okla. (AP)—Will A. Struck, who farms 480 acres of wheat land hard hit by drought, voted for Dwight D. Eisenhower for president in 1952. This time he will switch to the Democrats and Adlai E. Stevenson.

"My wheat crop," Struck said, "wasn't worth a damn. Haven't had a good crop around here since 1932. Between Ike and the dry weather they're going to bust us poor old farmers."

In 1952, Eisenhower carried this normally Democratic state by 518,045 votes to Stevenson's 430,939.

The Democrats are betting that the dry prairies and the hill country have enough discontented farmers to move Oklahoma's eight electoral votes over to Stevenson.

SAY EXAGGERATED

Republicans say the farm revolt is over-rated. Anyway, they're betting on big majorities in Oklahoma City and Tulsa, where Eisenhower four years ago rolled up a formidable 52,000-vote advantage.

Right now, you'd have to put Oklahoma down as doubtful with both sides running scared.

NEW JERSEY

TRENTON, N.J. (AP)—In New Jersey the Democrats are confident they can do better than last time. Four years ago Dwight D. Eisenhower defeated Adlai E. Stevenson by a 359,000 margin, representing more than 57 per cent of the total vote.

EXPECT REPEAT

On their part, the Republicans profess to see no reason why they shouldn't repeat. Today, employment and payroll figures are higher than in 1952. Farm policy is not a big issue here. No other questions seem to be agitating the whole state.

The state has had an estimated 14 per cent population increase since the last census, largely from migration. The Democrats believe they will reap the bigger crop in this new field of votes.

Democrats claim the "trend" is toward them. And they watch admiringly as the personable and energetic Gov. Robert Meyner—who is expected to seek re-election next year—gets out virtually every night to battle for the party. Meyner won the governorship by 160,000 votes just one year after Eisenhower's '52 victory. He was the first Democratic governor in 10 years.

IKE, 'TYPICAL NEWSBOY' CHAT AT WHITE HOUSE

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower Saturday greeted the "typical newsboy" of the United States, 14-year-old Andy Williams of Ames, Iowa, and gave him a packet full of small gifts, including two pencils gold-lettered "square deal candidate, Dwight D. Eisenhower."

Eisenhower and young Williams, a delivery boy on the Ames Tribune, met at the White House for what the newsboy called a "friendly chat—chewin' the fat."

Andy's call was arranged in connection with National Newspaper Boys' Day.

Cougars Top Canucks ---Impress in Opener

Colin's Cats Claw Canucks; Youthful Club Well Received

Victoria 5, Vancouver 2

By BILL WALKER

One game doesn't make a season, but Victoria Cougars certainly had a right to enjoy their Thanksgiving dinner Monday night.

Particularly this holds true for coach Colin Kilburn. Kilburn, Monday, saw his Cougars trip the Vancouver Canucks in the opening game of the 1956-57 Western Hockey League season at Memorial Arena, 5-2. As he said, "Dinner tonight will taste that much better. I thank the fellows for making it a day of thanks."

And it was a day to remember for a variety of reasons, all pertaining to the Cougar victory, which was justly deserved.

For this was Kilburn's first official league function as coach, and it was crowned with success. He got one of the five goals.

This was also the debut of several newcomers, and most distinguished themselves. Gordon Haworth, a shifty centre who sparked several attacks got the first goal of the year.

Cougars Kept Kilburn's Promise
He promised a free-skating club, and that's just what it was. It only failed off in the final frame, but that was to be expected this early in the year.

The 3,178 fans expressed their approval as well. Many times, Cougar players were the recipients of lengthy ovations.

The contest started at a fast clip and the tempo remained constant throughout. And it was following four penalties, as referee Scotty Morrison took immediate control, that Cougars drew first blood.

With the Canucks short-handed, Bill Davidson fired a blue-line drive and Haworth deflected it past Mikulan into the corner of the net at 10:21. Pelletier may have saved the day on a brilliant save from Dick Lamoureux at point-blank range, before Cougars struck again in the second. This time it was Ranieri on a long, partially screened drive at 5:07.

Kilburn announced following the game that goalkeeper Don Hamilton and defenceman Gordy Matheson would be sent to Humboldt of the Saskatchewan Junior League, and that Larry Berg had been dispatched to Kamloops on an immediate recall basis.

Cougars' next home game is against Seattle Americans at Memorial Arena, Friday night, following which they play in Seattle, Saturday, and then embark on their first prairie road trip of the season, opening in Winnipeg next Tuesday.

"We should be much sharper," said Kilburn, "with a few more games under our belts. But right now it's a pleasure to be in first place," which the Cougars are.

"Now for that turkey," he added. "Thanks to the boys I might have an extra helping."

IT DIDN'T HURT, BUT . . .
Hamilton Grigger In Wrong-Way Romp

TORONTO (CP)—Halfback Tex Robinson of Hamilton Tiger-Cats ran 70 yards the wrong way without knowing it Monday to give Toronto Argonauts two points on a safety touch as Ticats defeated Argos, 34-29, in a Big Four football game.

A crowd of 19,046 saw the former Cleveland Browns halfback pick up a fumble at the Toronto 40-yard line and trot towards his own goal-line. The big, hard-charging backfielder apparently thought he was on his way to the Toronto goal-line and a touchdown.

The crowd and players of both teams could hardly believe their eyes. As Argos battled gamely in an attempt to overcome a 34-7 lead, it appeared the weird play might lead to Hamilton's defeat.

The wrong-way run was in the third quarter with Tiger-Cats ahead 34-7. It sparked Argos to new fury and they went on to score three touchdowns and two converts to draw within five points of tying the score in a desperate but futile rally.

ITALY'S RIBOLT REMAINS UNDEFEATED
Horse of the Century

PARIS (Reuters)—Italy's four-year-old Ribot was acclaimed Europe's horse of the century Sunday when it won the Prix de l'Arc de Triomphe—richest turf event in Europe—for the second year in a row.

The Italian "wonder horse" swept home six lengths in front of an international field from the United States, Britain, France and Italy to win first prize of more than 30,000,000 francs (about $85,000).

Ribot, unbeaten in 10 races and a heavy favorite of the capacity 100,000 crowd, became the fifth horse in the 36-year history of the race to win it twice. Owned jointly by Marchese Incisa della Rocchetta and Mrs. Lydia Tesio, the horse was superbly ridden by Italian jockey Enrico Camici.

Second was Britain's Talgo, winner of the Irish Derby last June. Career Boy, one of two entries from the United States, was squeezed out of third place in a photo finish by the French horse Tanerko.

The American horse, ridden by U.S. jockey Eddie Arcaro, was flown across the Atlantic last week by owner C. V. Whitney. The three-year-old, which won the $100,000 United Nations Handicap last month in Atlantic City, N.J., was handicapped by a slight rise in Longchamp's turf track, as opposed to the flat dirt tracks at home.

Fisherman, the other American horse in the race, got off to a flying start and led all the way until the straight of the one and one-half-mile course. But Fisherman tired and finished ninth.

Regals Topple Stamps

Brandon 3, Calgary 1
Brandon Regals scored a 3-1 victory over Calgary Stampedeers here Monday night in their opening game of the 1956-57 Western Hockey League schedule.

Bill Bucyk, Howie Yanosik and Les Colwill were the Brandon marksmen, while Ray Barry scored the lone Stampede goal. Calgary took the lead with the only goal of the first period, breaking three strong from a Brandon gangling attack. Barry found the open net at 16:10 after goalie Lucien Dechene sprawled to kick out rapid-fire shots from Art Michalak and Steve Witluk, both of whom drew assists on the play.

Regals gradually gained control in the second period, peppering youthful Mark Edwards with 12 shots before beating him twice within 10 seconds to take the lead. Bucyk got the first at 16:25 when he raced through the defence and took a return pass from Norm Johnson at the goalmouth to hit the puck home. Colwill made it 2-1 from a face-off in the Calgary zone with a slider through a maze of legs catching the long corner.

Yanosik scored Brandon's final tally at 1:12 in the third when he took a pass from playing coach Don Raleigh and potted a 30-footer which slipped under Edwards' outstretched hand.

ONE DOWN, 69 TO GO

Well, that's one big one out of the way and the first of many, in the 70-game schedule signifies Cougar coach Colin Kilburn in a post-game, post-mortem with former Cougar owner Lester Patrick. As well as master-minding Cougars' 5-2 win over Vancouver, Kilburn took a direct hand in the victory, scoring one of the goals that gave him a successful coaching debut. (Times photos by Irving Strickland.)

HOW LARSEN DID IT—SERIES PLAY BY PLAY

Play-by-play account of Monday's fifth World Series game follows:

FIRST INNING
Dodgers—Gilliam was called out on strikes. Reese also was called out on strikes. Snider lined to Bauer in short right.
No runs, no hits, no errors, none left.

Yankees—Bauer popped to Reese in a shallow left field. Collins bunted toward third. Robinson throwing him out easily. Mantle filed high to Amoros in short left.
No runs, no hits, no errors, none left.

SECOND INNING
Dodgers—Robinson's liner bounced off Carey's glove to McDougal, backing up the play, and the Yankee shortstop threw him out on a fine play. Hodges went down swinging. Amoros popped to Martin who fell on his back as he made the catch.
No runs, no hits, no errors, none left.

Yankees—Berra popped to Amoros in short left. Martin was called out on three straight strikes.
No runs, no hits, no errors, none left.

THIRD INNING
Dodgers—Furillo filed to Bauer. Campanella was called out on strikes. Maglie filed to Mantle in short center.
No runs, no hits, no errors, none left.

Yankees—McDougal fouled out to Robinson. Carey fouled to Campanella. Larsen also fouled to Campanella.
No runs, no hits, no errors, none left.

FOURTH INNING
Dodgers—Gilliam rolled out to Martin. Reese accidentally tapped Larsen's first pitch to Martin and was an easy-out at first. Snider fouled Larsen's third-pitch into the mezzanine of the right field stands and then was called out on strikes.
No runs, no hits, no errors, none left.

Yankees—Bauer bounced out to Robinson. Collins was called out on strikes. Mantle lined a 2 and 2 pitch into the right field stands close to the foul line, for a home run putting the Yankees ahead, 1-0. It was the game's first hit. Snider made a brilliant, back-handed tumbling catch of Berra's liner to left center, receiving an ovation from the crowd as he rolled over and came up holding the ball in his glove.
One run, one hit, no errors, none left.

FIFTH INNING
Dodgers—Robinson sent a soft fly to Bauer. Hodges lined to deep left center, 410 feet from the plate and Mantle made a brilliant back-handed catch. Amoros rifled Larsen's 1 and 1 pitch into the lower right field stands, the ball curving foul at the last instant, for a long second strike. Amoros then bounced out to Martin.

SIXTH INNING
Dodgers—Gilliam walked on a 3-2 pitch. On the first pitch to Reese, Gilliam attempted to steal second and was thrown out. Reese was called out on strikes. Snider grounded out to Amoros. No runs, no hits, no errors, none left.

SEVENTH INNING
Dodgers—Robinson walked on a full count. Hodges struck out. Amoros fouled to second base. Robinson was almost at second base when he began dash to home. Collins fired wildly and Robinson was able to get back safely. It was an error for Collins. Furillo tapped weakly down the first base line to Collins.
No runs, no hits, no errors, none left.

Sturdivant Gives Hues To Berra

NEW YORK (AP)—Young Tom Sturdivant, who pitched New York Yankees back level with Brooklyn Sunday, credited Yogi Berra's signal calling and manager Casey Stengel's confidence with his 6-2 victory over Dodgers in the fourth world series game.

"Yogi called 'em and I threw 'em," the 26-year-old, highly-strung right-hander said. "What happened out on the mound in that tense ninth inning when the bases were full and the tying run hit the plate in the person of pinch-hitter Randy Jackson?"

"Well, Casey came out first just before Campanella singled, scoring Jackie Robinson," Sturdivant said. "He didn't say a word to me. He asked Yogi if I still had good stuff and Yogi said 'yes'."

"Then Casey hit me in the seat of the pants and said, 'Go get 'em.'"

Yank Pitcher Achieves History Against Brooks

By OSCAR FRALEY

NEW YORK (UP)—Towering Don Larsen, a modern Rube Waddell with all the talents of the old mound master, pitched the first perfect game in world series history Monday to give the New York Yankees a 2-0 win over the Brooklyn Dodgers and send them one game up in the classic.

Backed by the home-run bat of Mickey Mantle and fielding gems by the Oklahoma Kid and ganging Gil McDougal, the six-foot-four-inch right-hander thrilled 64,519 screaming Yankee Stadium fans as he wrote the record book with baseball's first no-hit, no-run, no-walk masterpiece in 34 years.

The last perfect game was by Charley Robertson of the White Sox, way back on April 30, 1922. And nobody expected such a feat from the unpredictable Don—a long-time resident of the Yankee doghouse who failed to last in the second game of the series.

But the big fellow from Michigan City, Ind., enthralled the sports world under the cobalt skies as he took two big assists from Mantle and another from McDougal, and completely crushed the Dodgers with 97 pressure-packed pitches.

It was a heart-stopping effort as Larsen, a carefree guy who called the series over-emphasized, surpassed the efforts of the greatest names in the annals of the game and hung a heart-breaking defeat on old Sal (The Barber) Maglie.

But the Barber, winner of the opening game of the series, couldn't match this performance despite a valiant effort in which he gave the Yankees only five hits. Because only three men in history had ever been able to post world series one-hitters—Ed Reulbach of the Cubs in 1906, Claude Passeau of the Cubs in 1945, and Bill Bevens of the Yankees in 1947.

Two Great Saves Needed
The 27-year-old Larsen needed two great saves—one by McDougal in the second and another in the fifth by Mantle, whose fourth-inning home gave Larsen his first run.

McDougal, the skinny Scotsman, was Larsen's hero in the second when Jackie Robinson powered a smash which scooted off Andy Carey's glove. Lean Gil pounced on it and rifled a throw to first which caught Robinson by an eyelash.

Then, in the fifth, big Gil Hodges lashed out a long drive to left center, which looked as if it was going through for an extra-base hit. But Mantle, running as if he had wings on his heels, brought a tremendous roar from the crowd as he made a sensational lunging back-handed stab and the ball smashed into his reaching glove.

Larsen took it from there after being given another run by his teammates in the sixth as the Yankees got to sallow-faced Sal for three hits—by Carey, Bauer's run-producing single after Larsen sacrificed Carey along, and a single by Joe Collins.

There was no stopping the strapping Larsen then. Inning by inning, he sent those disgusted Dodgers down in regular order. But it was far from monotonous.

Because, going into the ninth, Carl Furillo sent a towering drive high against the sky and Bauer took it just a few feet from the right field wall. Then it was the every-dangerous Roy Campanella, waving a bat that looked as big as a violin to the tight-lipped Larsen. "But the chunky Dodger catcher grounded out to Billy Martin at second."

Maglie, striving desperately to get that "one for the memory book," matched Larsen's perfect pace until two were out in the fourth inning. Old Sal worked the count to two and two and then watched helplessly as Mantle towered his home run into the right field seats, 90 feet away down the first-base line.

Stamps Eliminated From Playoff Race; Alouettes Near Title; Lions Triumph

By The Canadian Press

Saskatchewan Roughriders had reason today to give thanks for the Thanksgiving weekend results in the Western Interprovincial Football Union, but the same cannot be said for Calgary Stampede—despite Ronnie Fox.

Riders came through their single contest with a victory to remain in a first-place tie with Edmonton Eskimos, who had a loss and a win to snap a three-game losing streak, but the last-place Stampede dropped two decisions, with Knox replacing quarter Don Klosterman, and saw their last mathematical chance of a playoff berth go out the window.

Winnipeg Blue Bombers had a weekend split to hold third place, two points behind Saskatchewan and Edmonton and four ahead of British Columbia Lions, who won their single game to keep their playoff hopes alive. Eskimos and Riders have 8-4 records, Bombers 7-5, Lions 5-7 and Stampede 2-10.

Fifth Straight for Roughriders

In the WIFU, here's how the weekend went:

Lions whipped Stampede 24-7 before 25,633 fans at Vancouver and Bombers dropped Eskimos 10-7 before 18,721 at Winnipeg Saturday night to create a three-way first-place tie. That was Saturday.

Riders won their fifth straight game by defeating Bombers 24-14 before 15,517 fans in a Monday afternoon game at Regina to temporarily move alone into first place. Eskimos, with Johnny Bright and Earl Lindley back in the lineup, walloped the Stampede 36-8 before 11,261 at Calgary to move back into a first-place tie.

Next weekend could go a long way towards settling the first-place tie into the league final since Eskimos meet Riders at Regina and Bombers meet B.C. at Vancouver Saturday, while Winnipeg is at Edmonton and B.C. at Calgary Monday.

Bright, out for three weeks with a shoulder dislocation, and

Knox Does Okay; Vereb Gets Three

Knox, the much-publicized quarterback from UCLA who joined Calgary last week after quitting Hamilton Tiger-Cats of the Big Four, showed some brilliance in directing the club, but he alone was not enough to get Stampede rolling. Klosterman, the former Los Angeles Ram who came to Calgary in mid-1955, was cut loose before the Monday night game.

Earlier Monday, halfback Ken Carpenter scored two fourth-quarter touchdowns to give Saskatchewan its victory over Winnipeg. End Stan Williams scored the other Rider touchdown and guard Reg Whitehouse got three converts and a field goal. Larry Isbell kicked two singles.

Quarter and half Buddy Leake scored a touchdown and kicked two converts while fullback Bob Davenport got the other touchdown for Winnipeg.

Quarterback Frank Tripucka of Riders tossed two touchdown passes, one for 27 yards to Williams and the other for 66 yards to Carpenter.

Saturday night at Winnipeg, Eskimos took their third straight loss as Winnipeg came up with three field goals and a single in the second half to erase a 7-0 first half deficit that Eskimos had run up on a weird fumble play.

Leake booted two field goals and end Tom Miner kicked one while end Gerry Vincent accounted for a single on a long punt.

Unemployment Here Inching Upwards

Total number of unemployed persons in the Victoria area increased by 120 during the past week, C. A. Mudge, manager of the national employment office, reported today.

"This is a very moderate increase for the time of the year," Mr. Mudge said.

Much of the increase was recorded in the men's section with the result that the number seeking work has now increased to 1,060, passing the 1,000 mark for the first time in five weeks.

"This figure is well below average for the time of the year," Mr. Mudge said, "and is a further indication of the high level of employment in this area."

"There is still a large volume of work to be performed, so that the rate of increase will depend mainly on weather conditions."

SKILLED MEN NEEDED

"There is a continued demand for graduate engineers, draughtsmen and survey crew workers. There is also an urgent need for skilled welders, auto mechanics and body repairmen."

In the women's section the demand for workers is holding at a steady level with most vacancies occurring in lines of work that have shown shortages throughout the year.

Largest demand is for domestic workers, stenographers and junior office clerks with a continuing brisk demand for experienced waitresses.

The need for sales clerks has dropped off slightly, but there are still a few vacancies for girls "with suitable appearance and experience."

The list of vacancies, which can be seen at the Victoria office, includes chokermen, pipefitters, sheet metal workers, salesmen, shipfitters, steel-fitters, welders, electricians, sawmill laborers, millwrights, sewing machine operators.

POLICE SAVE LIBERACE AS FANS GO WILD

LONDON (Reuters) — Sunday, mounted police were called out here to rescue Liberace from a huge crowd of female fans outside a suburban theatre.

Police arrived just in time to save a disgusted man surrounded by a knot of hostile women after he had shouted at them: "Why don't you go home and cook the Sunday dinner?"

Some of the mob had started to assemble outside the 4,000-seat theatre six hours before the pianist appeared. Police were called to clear a passage for him as he left after a concert.

Presley, Mansfield To Make Film

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Twentieth Century-Fox studio said Monday night it plans to team Jayne Mansfield and Elvis Presley in a movie to be titled The Love Maniac.

No script had been written but the plan would be a comedy "taking advantage of his singing and her figure."

Production may start, a spokesman said, about the first of 1957, depending on the rock 'n' roll singer's other commitments.

Presley finished his first picture, Love Me Tender, at 20th Century-Fox Monday. In it he co-stars with Richard Egan and Debra Paget.

Station Plays Elvis For Nearly 8 Hours
ANCHORAGE, Alaska (UP) — From Point Barrow to Kenai, Alaska rocked to the music of Elvis Presley Friday night and Saturday morning as radio station KBYR played nothing else for seven and three-quarter hours.

Hundreds of telephone calls came into the station from all parts of the territory begging for more, the station announcers say.

An Anchorage drive-in served a "hound dog" on a bun at a give-away price during the marathon. And one woman telephoned to say her three-month-old child cried every time Presley quit singing.

MOVIE WORLD

By ERSKINE JOHNSON
NEA Hollywood Correspondent

HOLLYWOOD (NEA) — Behind the Screen: Porpoises were leaping 15 feet into the air, a penguin was roller-skating and a shark was winking at a barracuda. But a couple of movie stars just watching them were stealing the show.

The script of "Designing Woman" took Lauren Bacall and Gregory Peck, as a couple of California tourists, to spectacular Marineland of the Pacific on the coast near Los Angeles. But as "tourists," they were mobbed by real California tourists, who normally go around mistaking each other for movie stars.

Grace Kelly was slated for "Designing Woman" until she designed other plans and Lauren stepped into the part. No changes in the script, though. Or as Mrs. Humphrey Bogart flipped it to me: "You mean people might think there would have to be changes because I have two heads and Grace only has one?"

As a matter of fact, it's a jubilant Lauren with 30 wardrobe changes — "that's more than I've had in my last five pictures" — and a series of celluloid-melting love scenes with Peck.

"I even bite his ear in one scene," she laughed. "It's a good thing I'm not an actress who lives her part. Otherwise he wouldn't be able to hear for six months."

During the lunch break, Lauren bought her kids a collection of seashells in Marineland's gift shop. Also a starfish.

"The starfish is for Bogart," she explained. "I'm going to hang it on his bedroom door."

From the brilliant best-selling novel by Nevil Shute comes this marvelously moving and exciting film. Caught up in the turmoil of war in the Malayan jungle, a party of women are compelled to trek across country to find a place of refuge. Their adventures call for the kind of courage and endurance only found and developed as they face the hazards of their journey. From the blousy scoutmaster with a heart of gold, and the snobbish colonial — Mrs. Dudley Frost, to Virginia McKenna, playing her finest role as Jean Pamel, the English girl leader of this party, the characters are excellently drawn and superbly played. A great film. Not to be missed.

"THE GIRL MOST LIKELY" may be prophetic words for Kaye Ballard, the girl singing the title song in Jane Powell's new RKO musical. Two years ago, Kaye was hailed as the girl most likely to become a film star when she clicked on Broadway as a singer-comedienne in the musical, "Golden Apple."

But Hollywood just discovered her. Not that Kaye of the wild facial contortions and wider Italian-cut hair is surprised. "I've been very lucky," she says, "but never lucky enough. Like the time I was on the cover of Life but not in the story inside."

Not to mention, she adds, being considered for the film biographies of both Helen Morgan and Fanny Brice. "But nothing ever happened," Kaye beams now over her film debut in a wacky role she describes as "terrific because the girl I play is so enthusiastic about nothing."

Ten years ago, Kaye was the gal in Spike Jones' band who poured water out of a tuba.

Since then she's been pouring out songs in Broadway shows and in smart supper clubs. For the night club set she mixes warbling with what she calls "real ridiculous" patter like "everybody has swimming pools these days but I know people who don't have drinking water."

KEITH ANDER, the lad who as Marilyn Monroe's heart throb in 1952's "Clash by Night" is on the grease-paint trail after settling a long-drawn-out contract fight.

His movie boss — and adversary — was Howard Hughes, and Keith wound up on the RKO shelf along with Hughes' "Jet Pilot," which still hasn't been released. Hughes' sale of RKO finally released Andes from the career trap, and now he's one of the busiest actors in town — though still under contract to RKO for one movie a year for five years.

He just completed "Interlude" with Rossano Brazzi and June Allyson in Munich.

BOB HOPE is saying "Beau James" will be his last film until next summer when he teams up with Gina Lollobrigida in a comedy about a U.S. magazine writer and a famous Italian film star.

"I'll have time for only two things — TV and golf. My irons are rusty."

Daring Dancer, Canadian Born, Dies, Aged 73

Veiled 'Salome'
Shocked World

LOS ANGELES (APP) — Canadian-born Maud Allan, 73, whose interpretative-dance portrayal of Salome in scanty costume caused a sensation two generations ago, died Sunday at a rest home.

She had been in ill health the last two years. She had no living relatives.

Miss Allan was a pioneer in aesthetic dancing in filmy costumes, and by today's standards she was modest. But from 1903 to 1917—the years of her greatest successes — her draperies were thin and sensational.

Besides her "Vision of Salome," in which she carried a paper-mache head of John the Baptist, Miss Allan was noted for her interpretations of Rubenstein's "Valse Caprice" and Mendelssohn's "Spring Song." In 1917 her dance to Strauss' "Blue Danube" was hailed as one of the finest numbers of her career.

STARTED AS PIANIST
She was born in Toronto, the daughter of two physicians, Dr. William Allan and Dr. Isabel Hutchinson Allan. The date of her birth was never told but it is believed to have been in 1883.

When she was a child the family moved to California. She studied the piano in San Francisco, Berlin and Vienna, but in the Austrian capital Miss Allan switched to dancing and made her debut in 1903.

She danced before King Edward VII in 1907, and the following year made her first appearance at London's Palace Theatre. It was there that she introduced the Salome portrayal which shocked the world.

Miss Allan travelled around the world during the next few years. She became famous and received wide critical acclaim.

INJURY HALTED CAREER
Following the death of her mother in 1930 Miss Allan went into retirement for two years. Then she went to England to appear in several plays.

In 1928 an automobile crash near Pasadena, Calif., injured her so severely that she never danced again, but she assisted young dancers in their careers.

She returned to London and early in the Second World War drove an ambulance during the Battle of Britain. In 1941 Miss Allan returned to California and for a time worked as a draftsman at the Douglas Aircraft Company at Santa Monica. She had been in retirement ever since.

Dean's Last Role Gets Mixed Reaction

BY ALINE MOSBY
(United Press Hollywood Correspondent)

HOLLYWOOD (UP) — James Dean's third and last picture, "Giant," has been previewed to an enthusiastic Hollywood press but the final performance of the late actor got a mixed reaction.

The movie itself drew adjectives such as "magnificent" and "unequaled," mainly because of George Stevens' masterful direction, and appears headed for the finish line in the Oscar derby. It has its world premiere in New York Wednesday night.

But the fans who raised the dead actor to a status not even matched by Rudolph Valentino may not care to hear that not all of the critics and columnists agreed it was his best performance.

Columnist Sidney Skolsky declared Dean's acting was "uneven."

"Whether it was because of acting, direction or cutting, he started out as one type in the movie and without any transition suddenly became another type," he said.

EXAGGERATED
Critic Philip Scheuer of the Los Angeles Times pointed out that "all the Dean mannerisms are there, and if anything, exaggerated . . . but he still felt 'you remember him most vividly of all' members of the cast."

Daily Variety reported Dean gave a "competent" performance. A magazine critic said "Dean was still playing the juvenile delinquent — you had the feeling that if the camera moved one foot to the right you'd see Schwab's drug store."

Jim Mahoney of the "Herald-Express" declared "it wasn't Dean's best picture. The film belongs to Rock Hudson and Elizabeth Taylor."

MIDDLE-AGED
Dean plays the character of Jett Rink who strikes oil on his small plot of land in Texas. He builds hotels and an airport and is regarded as ruthless and cruel. In later scenes, greying hair and dark glasses in an attempt to appear middle-aged.

The picture has had "sneak" previews in theatres in the Los Angeles area during the last month. The word usually spread and teenage fans of Dean often stormed the theatres. When his name appeared on the screen they applauded wildly.

A Warner technician who worked on "Giant" says "a large part" of Dean's scenes were cut out during the editing. As a

New 'Mrs. Calabash' For Jimmy Durante

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP) — Jimmy Durante is going to have a new "Mrs. Calabash," but he still won't identify the old one. The 63-year-old comedian says he's getting married some time next year.

Durante, who whispers, "Good night, Mrs. Calabash, wherever you are," at the end of his telecasts, confirmed Sunday he is engaged to Margie Little, a 35-year-old Hollywood actress.

The news leaked out while Durante was in Phoenix during the weekend, and Miss Little was introduced to a photographer as Durante's fiancée.

'STUDIO ONE' WAITED

Margaret Sullivan Fails to Show Up

NEW YORK (AP)—The show did not go on Monday night for hunky-voiced actress Margaret Sullivan.

The 45-year-old stage and screen veteran failed to show up for the starring role in a CBS Studio One television drama.

Later her husband said she was ill and in a hospital, but her exact whereabouts remained a mystery. Reached by telephone at the couple's Greenwich, Conn., home, Kenneth Waggs, the husband, said:

ILL SOME TIME

"My wife was taken ill this morning. She hasn't been well for some time... she is in a hospital and I would prefer not to say where she is."

Studio One officials said Miss Sullivan attended rehearsals Sunday but did not appear for a final run-through Monday afternoon.

The cast of the hour-long program stood by until the last minute hoping that the star would turn up.

Miss Sullivan was to have played the lead in The Pilot, story of a Roman Catholic nun. When the actress did not appear, CBS replaced the scheduled show with a film of a previous Studio One drama.

Last spring, Miss Sullivan withdrew from the leading role in the Broadway play Janus because of ill health.

Gold Coast on Eve Of New Nationhood

LONDON (CP)—In six months, the legendary Gold Coast, where pirates roamed until the mid-19th century, will exist no longer. In its place will rise Ghana, a new, all-African nation of 4,500,000 people.

The crucial day is March 6, when an ancient and powerful African kingdom near Timbuktu. Then, like a youngster on his 21st birthday, the Gold Coast gets the key to the front door of the Commonwealth. It becomes black Africa's first British colony to achieve full nationhood within the Commonwealth, changing its name at the same time to Ghana.

Little Boy Loses Sight To Save Life

ATLANTA (AP)—A plucky little boy who liked to play cowboy lay in a hospital bed early today and fondled a fluffy white toy lamb.

Five-year-old Johnny Pair kept reaching for the lamb. It felt warm and familiar in a strange dark world, and there was comfort in that.

Johnny is blind, but he doesn't know it. And his mother doesn't know how to tell him, thinking of the times he dressed in his cowboy suit and aimed the guns at imaginary targets.

The lamb was the last thing Johnny saw Monday before he was wheeled to the operating room to have his cancerous right eye removed. The left eye was taken out two years ago in an effort to stop the spread of the malignancy.

HAS GOOD CHANCE

Doctors reported the 30-minute operation at Grady Hospital a success and said the "chances of cure from the growth now are reasonably good."

Mrs. Bessie Pair, 32, said her son was "brave and knew he was going to be operated on, but he didn't know he would be blind."

"The doctors wanted it that way. I don't know what we'll tell him later."

The operation ended a month-long debate between the boy's divorced parents on whether it should be performed. Mrs. Pair wanted the surgery but Arnold Pair, 33, maintained that the youngster should have his sight as long as he could.

Pair said Monday, however, that the "doctors finally convinced me that removal of Johnny's eye held the only chance of saving my boy's life."

"I cried myself to sleep most every night since I decided."

LCB to Boycott Distillers As Five More Boost Prices

B.C. Liquor Control Board will five more liquor manufacturers notified the B.C. board of price boosts up to 15 per cent, following the example set last week by Seagram's, Alberta Distillers and Canadian Schenley.

They are Corby Distillery Ltd., Gooderham & Worts, Meagher Bros. Ltd., Hiram Walker & Sons Ltd., and Melcher's Distilleries.

Redpath & Son, bottlers of gin, also announced an increase. It is understood the B.C.

board will take the same boycott action against all distillers who have increased their prices, but the attorney-general would not confirm this immediately.

NO REPLIES

Neither Mr. Bonner nor Col. Donald McGowan, LCB chairman, have had any word of a reply to the protest which took the form of a letter sent by the Alberta LCB chairman with the support of the other western provinces.

"There is no estimate yet as to how much of the increase would be passed on to the consumer," Mr. Bonner said. "But the general increase to the liquor boards would be 15 or 16 per cent."

Mr. Bonner was asked if the cessation of orders placed with Seagram's and Alberta distillers would be continued if the increases were put into effect.

VODKA NO CHEAPER

"We will meet that problem when it arises," he said. To a suggestion that vodka might be offered to the Canadian public as an alternative, the attorney-general said he did not think the sale of vodka would offer much of an economy in price.

He agreed, however, that larger supplies of cider might conceivably be offered as the experimental manufacture and sale of cider in the Okanagan had been "very well received" and it would be a useful adjunct to the B.C. apple industry.

"We would be prepared to give the cider industry any assistance the product justified," Mr. Bonner said.

BETWEEN TIMES

By MONTE ROBERTS

Some people are happy, some people are unhappy. For instance:

In the happy division, we nominate the gentleman involved in a lengthy discussion of baseball statistics, the World Series games of years gone by.

As memories of mighty bats and felicitous fielding bounced back and forth among his conferees, this happy gentleman kept nodding his head and murmuring, "ah, but there was 1935. THAT WAS A GOOD YEAR."

The others in the discussion group brought forth tales of Ruth and Gehrig and the Gashouse Gang, and Rube Wadell, and Mickey Cochrane's dropped third strike.

Still this happy gentleman kept saying, "Ah, 1935. That was a GOOD year."

Finally someone turned on him and asked, what was so good about 1935?

"1935?" replied this happy gentleman, a slow smile lighting his face. "In 1935, I lived in Detroit, and the Detroiters beat the Chicago for the World Championship of Baseball. Also," added the happy gentleman, "in 1935 my Old Man won the Irish Sweep, my sister was born, and my grandfather died."

"That was a good year, 1935," said the happy gentleman, "especially about the Detroiters winning the World Series."

Then there is the unhappy gentleman. I encountered him as he sat sipping a drink which was definitely not non-alcoholic, and puffing at a cigaret.

Naturally, I expressed some surprise, because I know this gentleman neither drank nor smoked. So I asked him why.

"I was trying to be funny," he said, unhappily. "I went in to see a doctor, just for a check-up. And when it came to the part where the doctor asks how much alcohol you consume, and how many cigarets you smoke, I said I drank about a bottle a day, and smoked two or three packs a day."

"Hah, hah, ha, I said, that was real funny." "Hah, ha, yourself," said the unhappy gentleman, taking a tentative swallow of his drink and looking sadly at the smouldering end of his cigaret. "After the doctor completed the examination, he told me I was 100 A-1 with Lloyds, but I had better change my drinking and smoking habits."

"The doctor told me," the unhappy gentleman reported, "I had better smoke 10 cigarets a day and drink six ounces of alcohol a day, instead of three packs and a bottle a day. 'A man can't go against his doctor's advice, can he?'" said the unhappy gentleman, ordering another drink and lighting another cigaret.

Ex-SPCA Inspector Posed As Doctor, Woman Testifies

Evidence was given in Assize Court today that Benjamin Robert Maggs, facing trial on charges of attempted abortion, and indecent assault, posed as a doctor on April 1 of this year.

The trial is the first to be heard before the Fall Criminal Assizes which opened today at the court house with Mr. Justice Harold McInnes presiding. A. deB. McPhillips is Crown counsel, while James Proudfoot is defence counsel.

Joyce Margaret Billings, complainant in the trial, told a 12-man jury that Maggs came to her home on April 1 and introduced himself as a medical practitioner. She said at the time she was pregnant.

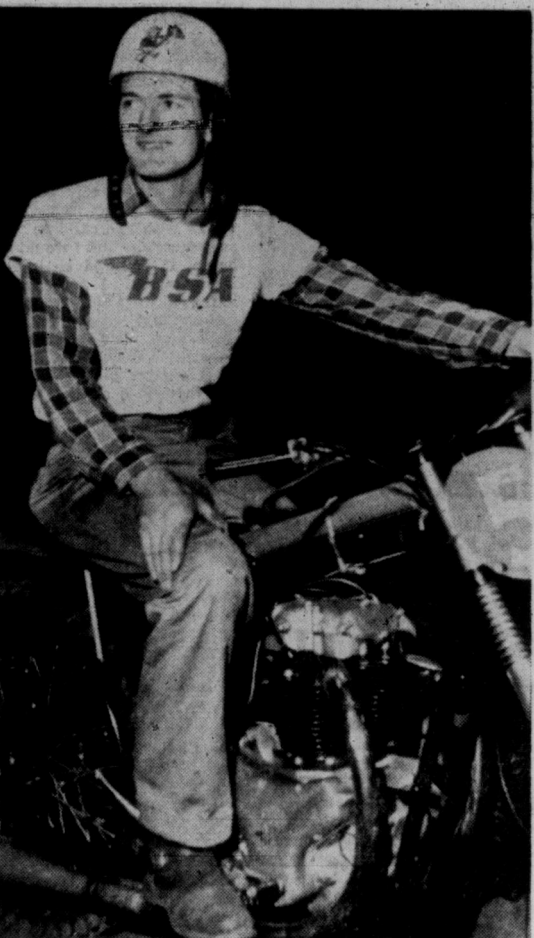

Earlier, Crown counsel said he would bring in evidence to show that Maggs, ex-inspector of the SPCA here, posed as a medical practitioner and "scared the daylight" out of Mrs. Billings by making her believe that she was in need of medical treatment at once.

The Crown counsel also said the Crown would seek to prove that Maggs had established a "liaison" as a doctor with soldiers stationed at the Gordon Head Camp.

PGE Building Branch Moves To Vancouver

Construction department of the Pacific Great Eastern Railway is being moved from Victoria to Vancouver, J. S. Broadbent, newly appointed general manager in succession to Einar Gunderson, confirmed today.

Transfer of the department to the mainland means that about 18 personnel now working in Victoria will have to make their homes in Vancouver in order to work at head office.

Mr. Broadbent has resigned as deputy minister of railways and left the civil service in order to take over his new PGE post. He has transferred to head office and will live in Vancouver.

NO GLOOM

He spoke enthusiastically of the new extension of the railway from Vancouver to Squamish, opened on Aug. 27, and said pessimistic predictions concerning the line were "unfounded."

"We have a geological report which states that the extension has been very well constructed and is as safe as any railway could be."

"True, we have had small stoppages but these are in the normal course of events and give no grounds for alarm."

Mr. Broadbent said the two trains now operating daily between Vancouver and Squamish are handling more than 300 passengers a day.

"This is even more than we expected," he said.

'Hillclimb Winner Nips at Record

For the fourth consecutive year, Victoria motorcycleist John Collyer won Vancouver Island hill climb championship at Victoria Motorcycle Club's annual meet Monday at Mount Douglas.

He came within a tenth of a second of matching the club record of 5.7 seconds—set by him on the hazardous course.

More than 900 showed up to watch the trials which were run off without serious injury to competitors or spectators. Joe Hyde was the most seriously shaken up, but recovered to continue after his bike flipped from under him.

Other events and winners were:

Unlimited novice — George Lohrmann 6.9 seconds; Stu Timbers, no third.

Club championship (Paul Giraudau Trophy)—John Collyer 6.1 seconds; Wes Morhart 6.1 seconds; Newt Cameron.

Vancouver Island Championship (F. W. Francis Trophy)—John Collyer 5.9 seconds; Wes Morhart; Dave Moore and Newt Cameron tied.

350 cc (21 cubic inch) event — Al Boshier 9.9 seconds; Wes Morhart; Joe Hyde.

500 cc (45 cubic inch) event — Dave Moore 6.3 seconds; Ken Wilkins; Ben Rircock.

In the club championship event first three places scored unusually with 6.1 6.2 and 6.3 seconds respectively.

Mayor Scurrah said the pinballs are licensed and legal at present if they don't pay off, "... but they are very hard to catch up with."

"If these things are going on in the city, we want to know about it and we will take steps to stop it." He said he had not contacted the RCMP. "I don't think it is a matter for them. That is probably why they have taken no action if they have information (as the New Westminster story stated)."

Ricochet Shot Wounds Hunter

First reported hunting accident this season in Victoria area sent George Adams, 42, 1275 Rudlin, to St. Joseph's Hospital Saturday afternoon with a gunshot wound above his right knee.

He was reported in satisfactory condition today recovering from the wound, which occurred as he and a companion, Harold Sahlin, 1275 Queens, hunted deer in the Highlands above Goldstream flats.

DASH FOR AID

Sahlin carried Adams on his back down the rugged mountainside in an exhausting dash for aid, then left him at a logging trail while he ran a mile to where they had parked their car.

He then drove the car to where Adams waited, got him in and made for St. Joseph's Hospital, a distance of 13 miles.

Mrs. Adams explained the accident as it was described to her. The two hunters had spotted a deer and Sahlin took a shot at it with his heavy rifle. The shot missed, but the bullet ricocheted from a tree, striking Adams in the leg.

Expert Gives Estimate To Public Works Body

Cost of tearing out the Hillside-Douglas roundabout and replacing it with a new traffic junction, recently suggested by United States traffic consultant Jackson D. Faustman, is estimated at $40,000.

Victoria council public works committee met with Mr. Faustman today at City Hall.

It was indicated the committee favors use of "scramble" pedestrian crossings at two downtown corners — Douglas and Yates and Douglas and Fort. These were highlights of the first discussion of a plan to improve city traffic as suggested by the traffic expert some weeks ago.

NO DECISION

For the most part, the committee discussed the earlier proposals. No decision was reached but it was decided to hold a meeting of council as a committee with Mr. Faustman following a regular council meeting Thursday.

Mayor Percy Scurrah asked whether the traffic engineer had considered cutting Government and Gorge out of the Hillside-Douglas intersection with a dividing boulevard, as was suggested years ago by former city traffic engineer Robert Doble.

Mr. Faustman said he felt this would just distribute the Porte Quebec returns Nov. 7, problem to other intersections, not solve it.

Mayor Scurrah enquired about the "scramble" pedestrian crosswalks, such as are used in Vancouver. Under this plan all lights are red for traffic for a period and pedestrians may walk in any direction, including cater-corner.

Mr. Faustman suggested it be tried at two intersections for 90 days. He said cost would be about $3,500, but if it didn't work the signals could be re-installed elsewhere.

He felt the worst effect the scramble corners could have would be to spoil the traffic synchronization now in effect on Douglas. On the other hand, he pointed out, such corners cut pedestrian accidents almost to nothing.

Health Board Debates Ban on Hens, Rabbits

Victoria-Esquimalt Area

May Be Closed to Livestock

A proposal to outlaw keeping of poultry, rabbits or other small livestock in areas under its control will be discussed by Victoria-Esquimalt Union Board of Health.

The board will also consider possible curtailing of operations of horse-drawn trolleys in the city, as a health measure.

Chairman of the board, Esquimalt councillor G. K. Samman called the meeting for 2:30 p.m. next Tuesday.

It is understood that health officials oppose keeping of poultry and livestock in urban areas due to the attraction of rats to feeding places. A poultry keeping by-law now in effect in the city sets regulations which make such an activity difficult.

Any by-law which would make such an act illegal would probably give people now keeping chickens a reasonable time to make other arrangements.

Objection to the horse-drawn trolley is because of manure on city streets.

Chairman Samman said the board will study new figures regarding operation of the Saanich health unit relative to the current drive to amalgamate all district health bodies.

Oak Bay officials are expected to meet with the board to discuss proposals which would include Oak Bay in the Union Board of Health. Oak Bay Reeve F. E. Norris said today no decision had yet been reached by his council.

"It's not exactly what we wanted," he said of the proposal.

Indian Arts Meeting Thursday

B.C. Indian Arts and Welfare Society will meet in the music room of the Public Library Thursday at 8 p.m. Guest speaker will be Dr. W. G. Black, regional liaison officer, Department of Citizenship and Immigration. His subject will be "The Education of Our Indians."

ASK THE TIMES

Q.—When was Prince George incorporated?

A.—The Cyclopaedia of Canada records events as follows: "On the amalgamation of the North West and Hudson's Bay Companies (Fort George), established in 1807 by Simon Fraser for the North West Co., was taken over by the latter (H.B. Co.). It was a mere fur trading post until 1868 or 1869, when the Grand Trunk Pacific, now the Canadian National, was surveyed through to Prince Rupert. Settlement began as construction progressed, and in March, 1915, the municipality was incorporated as the city of Fort George; later in the same year the name was changed to Prince George."

Q.—In what literary work appears the line, "Variety is the spice of life?"—D.N.G.

A.—That line, actually "Variety is the very spice of life," is line 606 of the Timepiece, in The Task, Book II, by William Cowper.

Anyone wishing a question answered is invited to send the problem along to The Times, addressed to "Ask The Times" Editor. Questions and answers will be published daily.

All questions should deal with matters of fact and be of general interest. The Times does not undertake to solve conundrums.

TACTICAL PLOT with model ships is used in training in anti-submarine warfare at HMCS Naden for RCN, RCAF, USN officers. Senior staff officers are,

Naden Teaching Anti-Sub Warfare

First anti-submarine warfare course for navy and airforce officers to be conducted on the west coast opened at HMCS Naden today, with 58 RCN and RCAF and USN officers attending.

In the past this course has been given at the joint maritime warfare school, Halifax. This year, all candidates for the course are serving in western Canada, so the instructional staff was brought to the students.

These enrolled include 25 RCN officers from Pacific Command Ships; 29 aircrew officers from the RCAF station, Comox, and four officers from the U.S. Navy.

The course will take three weeks, two of which will be spent in classrooms at the Na-den torpedo anti-submarine school, and one at sea in ships of the Second Canadian Escort Squadron.

Senior staff officers in charge of the school are: Cmdr. A. H. Rankin, the RCN director, and Wing Commander J. E. Creeper, the RCAF director. The senior instructor is Lt.-Cmdr. D. M. MacLennan and the chief instructor Squadron Leader C. G. Agnew, RCAF.

SHOPPING GUIDE

Thanksgiving Is Over...
And Christmas Is Coming

By PENNY SAVER

Jingle bells, jingle bells... Don't mind me, I've caught the spirit of the stores, and have started thinking about Christmas and seasonal shopping trips. There are some very good "long-before-Christmas" buys around town.

You can buy Christmas cards, wrapping and party supplies at amazingly low prices right now, so take advantage of the opportunity to stock up before the rush.

Napkins patterned all over with snow scenes, Santas, snowmen and poinsettia arrangements come in bundles of 100 and are just 39 cents. With a bargain like this at hand, I'm sure you'll understand why I'm pushing the season.

These napkins, made in Denmark, are the linen-like paper ones that have proved so popular before. If you want some for everyday use, there are other patterns, in a host of colors, for your choice, all at the same price.

In a children's store I found something to please the heart of any little girl. Fur, in almost any form, gives a female, no matter what the age, a feeling of luxury. A soft and cozy fur muff with a tie on cap-bonnet to match will make any outing a dress-up occasion for the little miss who wears them. Made of Orlon and dyed that will resist marking, and will stand up under the hardest wear, this set feels just like bunny fur. The set is yours for $4.98. An excellent Christmas gift idea.

Of brushed wool that holds the warmth so effectively are the hat and scarf sets for the older girls.

They suit everyone from junior high school crowd to mothers of the students. The hats are real ear-warmers, and the scarf will put an end to having to turn your coat collar up. They come in turquoise, pink and white, and are $3.95 a set.

For your telephone at home or at the office, here's an ear pad that will be a boon, especially if the telephone surroundings are noisy. These sponge rubber pads have an adhesive surface on one side so that you just press it onto the ear phone. It stops the phone from pressing against your ear, and stops outside noise as well. Washable, it can be easily removed. The price is 25 cents.

Interested in the items mentioned? Then call me at 2-3131 and I'll tell you where to find them.

HADASSA BAZAAR

Showing some of the delicacies to be on sale, Oct. 17, at the Hadassa Bazaar in the Temple Emmanuel, are Mrs. H. Kramer, tea convener; Mrs. J. Krasney, president, and Mrs. E. Bellas, bazaar convener, left to right. The affair, which opens at 1.30 p.m. will raise money to rehabilitate Israeli children and to buy police equipment in Israel. There will be door prizes and stalls of home cooking, aprons, handicrafts and Christmas gifts.

Cooper-Mann Wedding
Solemnized Recently

Gowned in a bridal dress of lace and net, Miss Wilma Doreen Louise Mann, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. I. Mann, 3030 Washington Avenue, entered Douglas Street Baptist Church recently to become the bride of George Thomas Cooper, son of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Cooper, 135 Burnside Road. Rev. J. Barton of West Vancouver officiated at the ceremony which was performed in a setting of fall flowers. Mrs. G. Gillie, soloist, was accompanied by organist Mrs. E. Heyer.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore with her ballerina-length, pearl and sequin-embroidered gown a shoulder-length veil highlighted with sequins. A pearl tiara held her misting veil, and completing her ensemble, she carried a bouquet of white carnations and red roses.

Maid of honor was Miss Barbara Mann, groomed in a pink net over taffeta dress, and junior bridesmaid, Miss Evelyn Cooper, in a blue net over taffeta dress. They wore wrist-length gloves and carried colonial bouquets to match their gowns.

The groom had his brother, Robert Cooper, as best man and W. Swan and B. Waters as ushers. A reception was held in the Kiwianettes, rummage sale, Saturday, Public Market, 7 a.m.

Florence Nightingale Chapter, IOOE, Wednesday, 2 p.m., home of Mrs. I. Mellor, 1120 Oxford Street.

WEDDING THIS MONTH

Oct. 27 has been chosen as the date for the wedding of Miss Lilian Elizabeth Marshall, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Marshall, 3167 Shelbourne Street, and Mr. Eskil Ludvig Johnson, son of Mr. Bror Johnson, of Calgary and the late Mrs. Johnson. The ceremony will take place in Belmont United Church. Miss Marshall graduated from University of British Columbia in 1956 with a degree in Nursing, and Mr. Johnson, in Engineering. Miss Wilma Parker will be maid of honor and Miss Helen Gray, bridesmaid. Mr. Lawrence Johnson of Calgary, will be best man, and ushers will be Mr. Kenneth Hanson, Calgary, and Mr. James E. Marshall, Victoria. (Photos by Krass and Campbell Studios, Vancouver.)

WHY GROW OLD?

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

Widow Advised to Join
Groups to Meet Men

Q.—"Is there any possibility for romance for a 35-year-old widow with two children? They are school age and I would be so happy if it could be a whole family again. I meet no men in my work. I am just ordinary looking and have a very good disposition. Is a case like mine hopeless? If not, how does one meet eligible men? I get you get thousands of letters like this one."

A.—I do not think age has anything to do with it except that there are naturally fewer unmarried men the older the age group is. I certainly do not think your case is hopeless but you will have to join groups where you will meet men; church groups, adult education classes, classes in some hobby which both men and women like, such as handicrafts. Many YWCAs and YMCAs have special nights when both men and women participate in the program.

Men and women need companionship with the opposite sex. However, do not think of every man you meet as a potential husband or you will scare them all off. Let things develop naturally.

Q.—"I am almost 14 years old. My measurements are bust 33, waist 25 and hips 35 inches."

A.—Your waist will naturally slim down and your bust will increase within the next couple of years. You are not out of proportion. You are allowed a two-inch difference between the bust and the hips anyway, so do not worry.

Q.—"I am 15 years old and 5 feet 3½ inches tall. 4 weigh 150 pounds. My bust measures 34, waist 29 and hips 42 inches. How much should I lose? I wear my hair long. Should it be cut short because of my stoutness?"

A.—You are about 30 pounds overweight. The way you wear your hair depends more on the shape of your face than on your weight. If it is becoming too long, wear it that way. If your face is round wear it high on top and close to the sides of your face.

AN ENGAGEMENT ANNOUNCED

Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Mitchell, 598 Leaside Avenue, announce the engagement of their youngest daughter, Nora Patie, to Mr. Wilfred Denis Goddard, son of Mr. and Mrs. H. Goddard, Trail. The ceremony will take place Oct. 27 at 8 p.m. in St. Andrew's

Mr. and Mrs. William Paul McColl Exchange Vows in Candlelit Church

Flickering light from two, seven-branched, candelabras played upon baskets of gold, bronze and white chrysanthemums in St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church, Saturday evening, for the wedding of Mr. and Mrs. William Paul McColl and Miss Moira McColl, sister of the groom, who wore cock-tail-length gowns, styled with off-shoulder necklines and full skirts. Miss Stevenson's was of gold crystalline and Miss McColl's of cream de menthe green taffeta. Necklines of their gowns were trimmed with matching velvet and they carried cascade bouquets of yellow chrysanthemums and wore bandeaux of matching flowers in their hair.

Cousin of the bride, Miss Donna Deane, was flower girl, wearing a gown of mauve net with puff sleeves and carrying a colonial bouquet of mauve chrysanthemums. She wore matching flowers in her hair bandeau. Brother of the groom, Jim McColl, was best man, and R. Edington, C. Mills and J. Thorpe were ushers.

Reception was held in the Flamingo Room, where toast to the bride was proposed by her cousin, Jack Phillion. The newlyweds cut a four-tier wedding cake surrounded by tulle dotted with gardenias and flanked by crystal candelsticks holding white candles. The bride wore a green knitted suit, and fur jacket for travelling on honeymoon to Seattle, Wash. Her hat and gloves were chocolate brown and bag and shoes, coffee brown.

Mr. and Mrs. McColl will live at 1788 Fairfield Road.

YMCA Auxiliary Successful Sale

The sum of $168 was netted from the annual fall rummage sale sponsored by the YMCA Ladies' Auxiliary, held in the Y Building, Thursday. Convener of the sale was Mrs. Harry Hawkins.

At a meeting, recently, it was decided to provide new linoleum at a cost of $300 for one of the upstairs corridors. To raise further funds for the house-keeping program, members decided to make individual efforts by giving telephone bridge parties or luncheons before the next meeting. Mrs. H. L. Campbell presided at the meeting.

Autumn Color Theme Chosen For Stewart-McLean Wedding

Bronze and gold-toned chrysanthemums decorated Centennial United Church, Saturday evening, for the wedding of Mona Emilia McLean, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Norman McLean, Quarantine Road, William Head, to Wendall Morley John Stewart, Powell River, B.C., son of Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Stewart, 1565 Elgin Road. Rev. Douglas B. Carr conducted the ceremony and during the signing of the register, Miss Sidney Barlow sang, "The Lord's Prayer." Organist was Mrs. Margaret Wilmshurst.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride chose a wedding gown of white nylon net over satin with strapless lace bodice topped by a matching lace bolero jacket. The full-length skirt posed over hoops, showed lace inserts in the misting net. A pearl-studded tiara held her floor-length veil and she carried a bouquet of gardenias and stephanotis.

Miss Lily Golik, maid of honor, and Miss Eve Moffitt, cousin of the bride, bridesmaid, were similarly gowned in bronze chrome spun taffeta. Their gowns were full-length princess style, with high necklines dipping to V's at back and accented by large bows. They carried bouquets of gold and bronze chrysanthemums and wore headresses of the same flowers.

Miss Kathy McLeod, flower girl, wore a hoop-skirted gown of yellow tulle over taffeta and carried a colonial bouquet of autumn-toned beehive chrysanthemums. As ring bearer, Russell Trace

Mushroom Hunters Keep Expert Busy

A mushroom collecting craze has hit Victoria.

Dr. Adam Szczawinski, provincial botanist, said today that ever since wild mushrooms came into season this fall, hundreds of people have been coming to him for identification of good and bad fungi.

The botanist thinks the sudden interest in collecting mushrooms is due largely to European immigrants who are accustomed to collecting edible fungi in their own country.

He warned people only to eat wild mushrooms which they know to be edible as there are a few poisonous species around Victoria.

Autos Jam Mountain As 500 Peek at Mars

Observatory Telescope Yields Clear View of Planet's Poles, Equator

Nearly 500 men, women and children gathered around the giant telescope at the Dominion Astrophysical Observatory on Little Saanich Mountain Saturday night for a "close-up" of the planet Mars. Their cars almost jammed the mountain roadway, being parked on either side leaving barely adequate

At a reduced distance of 40,000,000 miles they were able to see one of the planet's pole caps and some of the markings around the equator.

"It was a clear night and the public saw the planet under almost ideal conditions," Dr. R. M. Petrie, director of the observatory, said.

Mars is now receding at a speed of about 3,000,000 miles a week and when the public is invited to study the planet next Saturday it will be six per cent smaller.

"From an astronomical point of view that is a disadvantage," Dr. Petrie said, "but the public will lose nothing by it."

"We plan to continue these public observations every Saturday during October, weather permitting. We were greatly encouraged by the attendance last Saturday."

The telescope was operated by Dr. G. J. Odgers, observatory astronomer. Both he and Dr. Petrie lectured on what was seen through the telescope and answered numerous questions from interested spectators.

"We hope next Saturday's public view will be even more successful," Dr. Petrie said.

TOY SHOP JOB

Santa Needs Part-Time Helper Here

Santa needs a helper—fast. The job calls for mechanical know-how, hard work and a large basement. There's no pay but there is a reward.

Applications will be taken by Robert Patch, 234 Beechwood, former chief organizer of the Royal Arcanum Society's annual Christmas toy repair project.

Last year, almost single-handed, Mr. Patch repaired and painted some 700 toys, which were placed under the Christmas trees of 500 "underprivileged" children in Greater Victoria.

This year he no longer has any spare time and in his new home there will be no room for the tons of old toys donated to the society.

"If some organization or group is willing to take on this job, I'll be glad to give them a hand," he said.

Anyone wishing to be Santa's helper for the underprivileged should phone Mr. Patch at 24786.

Accused Pledges 6-Month Drought

A pledge not to drink intoxicants for six months won a suspended sentence for Cyril Gardiner, Glen Court, in city police court Saturday where he faced a charge of false pretences with intent to defraud.

Magistrate H. C. Hall ordered a $500 bond posted for good behavior during the period. Gardiner admitted tendering a worthless cheque for payment on an account and $91 cash.

Magistrate Hall referred to a probation report in which was noted liquor was largely responsible for Gardiner's trouble. He suggested six months' abstinence.

"I think a lifetime would be better," said Gardiner, a former coastal seaman. He said he wanted to get back to sea to "straighten himself out."

Polish Pilot Wins Asylum in Denmark

COPENHAGEN (Reuters) — Ygmunt Goscinia, Polish Air Force lieutenant who landed his MiG-15 jet fighter on the Danish island of Bornholm Sept. 25, was granted political asylum by the Danish ministry of justice today. Poland has demanded the return of the pilot and his machine.

Inco Metals at Work in Canada

Alnico magnets help solve crimes by enabling police to locate weapons and other bits of hidden evidence.

Alnico magnets sometimes help save lives by making it easier for surgeons to recover small metal objects swallowed by children.

Alnico magnets are now being installed in upper and lower sets of dentures to hold false teeth securely in place.

Alnico magnets are used by Canadian companies in speakers on radio and television sets.

Alnico magnets installed on refrigerator and cupboard doors provide quiet, easy, secure closing.

Powerful magnets, made with INCO NICKEL, help solve crimes... even hold false teeth tighter!

USING NICKEL supplied by Inco, a Canadian manufacturer, is producing an alloy called Alnico.

When magnetized, Alnico becomes a powerful magnet that retains its magnetic strength indefinitely.

Several million Alnico magnets are made in Canada every year. These are used by Canadian companies in the manufacture of hundreds of products such as motors and generators, aeroplane instruments, telephones and children's toys, to name only a few.

Since every single one of these magnets contains Inco Nickel, it is easy to see how this Inco metal helps provide jobs in Canadian industry.

ISLAND DIGEST

26 Victoria Daily Times TUESDAY, OCT. 9, 1956

Bridegroom Snatched From Bride to Death

Honeymooners Strolling Hand in Hand When Runaway Car Strikes Airman Down

PORT ALBERNI (Special to The Times)—An afternoon hand-in-hand stroll across Port Alberni's Argyle Street on Saturday ended in death for honeymooning FO L. S. Wall, RCAF, of Portage La Prairie.

Mrs. Wall, a bride of 24 hours, had no inclination of tragedy until her husband's hand was snatched from hers as they walked across Argyle Street to their honeymoon hotel.

FO Wall was struck and killed almost instantaneously when a car rolled across the road from a used car lot and pinned him to a car parked outside the Somass hotel.

In falling, he struck his head on the road. Guests of the hotel ran from the lobby on hearing Mrs. Wall's hysterical screams for help.

Married in Comox on Friday, the newlyweds were spending the weekend in the Albernis before leaving the island for Portage La Prairie, home station of FO Wall.

On Saturday morning the couple passed the time watching hotel TV set. It was after lunch they decided to take the walk that ended in death.

It is understood that a few minutes before the accident, Mr. and Mrs. Wall were examining cars on another used car lot.

An inquest will be held to night at 7.30 in Port Alberni police station.

Damages $3,200 In Car Crashes At Pt. Alberni

PORT ALBERNI—Three car mixups here over the weekend caused approximately $3,200 in damages.

Sunday afternoon, Ray Callewaert struck a rock five miles east of here. Damage was about $1,000.

Also, Sunday, Rudy Johanson clipped a telephone pole. Damage was estimated at another $1,000.

Monday, Mike Petersen went off the road near Cameron Lake and his car turned over. Damage was about $1,200. He was not hurt.

East Sooke, Otter Pt. Name School Spokesmen

W. D. Nichol and F. Kennedy were elected representatives to the Board of School District 62 (Sooke) at meetings in East Sooke and Otter Point.

Trustees A. R. Hull and Mrs. W. Reader and school board secretary J. L. Wheelton were present at the meeting in the East Sooke School; and trustees John Williams and John E. Martin attended the Otter Point meeting.

Mr. Nichol succeeds Mrs. J. R. Horgan, who was unable to continue as East Sooke representative, while Mr. Kennedy has been re-elected at Otter Point for another year.

Mother Breaks Leg In Two Car Crash

PORT ALBERNI—Mrs. Carmen Mayen, 19-year-old mother of two children, suffered a broken leg in a head-on collision five miles west of here Sunday.

Her husband, two children and three other persons involved in the collision escaped without serious injury. Mrs. Mayen is in good condition in hospital.

Ladysmith Man Heads B.C. Weekly Editors

VANCOUVER (CP)—John MacNaughton, publisher of The Ladysmith Chronicle, was elected president of the B.C. division of the Canadian Weekly Newspapers Association.

Fairbridge Man 'Best Plowman'

DUNCAN—Grand aggregate winner in the annual Cowichan plowing match Saturday was Ian Stevenson, son of Archie Stevenson, owner of Fairbridge Farm.

The younger Stevenson now has won the Best Cowichan Plowman title three times.

Jack Houston of Shawnigan Lake was runner-up. Stevenson won high marks in the tractor classes and Houston in the horse classes. Houston's team of Clydesdales was best dressed on the grounds.

There were 27 competitors in the match, held under perfect weather conditions on the farm of Watson Evans, two miles north of here.

Eight of the competitors, including Robert Strachan, CCF leader, were in the businessmen's class. Mr. Strachan was plowing in his own constituency and speaking at the close of the contests he said he was glad not to have been plowed under in the recent political match.

Pat Patterson, Duncan garage man, won the businessmen's plowing match, with Jack Praski runner-up.

Gun Assault Hearing Open

PORT ALBERNI—A young Chinese, Lum Back Sing, charged with wounding with intent to do bodily harm, appeared in Port Alberni court today for preliminary hearing before Magistrate Thomas Patterson.

Sing elected trial before a judge.

Charges against him came about after a shooting foray in a local cafe Sept. 23.

Sing allegedly shot Hans Hurrell through the leg.

Old-Time Nanaimo Resident Buried

NANAIMO—Funeral will be held today for Frederick Arthur Botley, 68, who died Friday after 65 years' residence of this mid-island city.

Mr. Botley conducted a shoe repair business; he was an ardent bowler and a member of the Owls' Club and the pioneers' Association.

Tommies In Malta Protest

Reserves Claim Poor Conditions

VALLETTA, Malta (Reuters) A crowd of British army reservists, called up at the time of the Suez Canal crisis and rushed here, staged a protest march Monday night, the fourth such demonstration at a British army base in 10 days.

An undisclosed number of troops marched on the officers' mess, shouted down an officer who tried to address them, and demanded to air their grievances, a spokesman of the group said.

The men, anti-aircraft artillerymen, complained of poor food and living conditions in the fenced encampment. They staged their march after a mass meeting in the camp canteen.

A headquarters spokesman confirmed that a march had taken place, but would give no details.

There was a similar march by another unit of British troops here last Friday. And in Britain Monday night a party of reservists protested against their inactivity and camp conditions at a mass meeting at a base in Crookham.

Ten days ago in Cyprus disgruntled reservists held a demonstration at a Suez emergency camp which resulted in 21 arrests.

The spokesman of the Monday night demonstrators, telephoning from the base, said the protest march was orderly.

The spokesman said that when they reached the officers' mess their regimental sergeant-major met them and offered to forward their complaints.

He was shouted down, the spokesman said, as the men wanted to give their complaints to the commanding officer personally.

DODGERS

In the Brooklyn ballpark since old Burtleigh turned the trick.

The Yankees, shooting to wrap up their seventh world championship in 10 years, gave Lapine a bitter run for it. Eight times they had men on base—and every time the calm right-hander from Rhode Island, who is used to having base runners

The Yankees had beaten

slender Clem in 1953 to clinch

the Series and, with thoughts still on Larsen's perfect game, they made certain immediately that Lapine wasn't going to have one. Hank Bauer, the first batter of the day, opened with a single to centre and ruined any such thoughts

Lapine may have had, although he was immediately erased from the bases when Joe Collins hit into a double play.

But neither did Turley's no-hit ambitions last beyond the first inning. He was using the same "no windup" delivery as Larsen had but, with two away,

Snider reached him for a first-inning single to end a string of 30 consecutive Dodger outs.

The Yankees were right back at Lapine in the second inning when Yogi Berra led off with a line drive against the right-field fence, but was held to a single by the expert manner in which Carl Furillo played the wall. Lapine got out of it again when Slaughter forced Berra and the next two men went down in order.

Again in the third they were after Clem, who made only three starts in 62 games he pitched for the Dodgers this year. But there were two away when Bauer and Collins slapped back-to-back singles and Mickey Mantle grounded out.

Turley survived a weird inning in the Brooklyn third when, with one out, Slaughter lost Gilliam's easy fly in the sun. But Junior tried for two and Slaughter threw him out.

Then Reese ducking away from a pitch, popped to Collins behind first as the ball accidentally struck his bat.

Lapine, pitching with an easy unruffled motion, got the first two men in the sixth before

Berra doubled into right centre and the pressure tightened as Slaughter walked. But Lapine, whose many walks from the bull pen usually are made with men on the sacks, got Billy

Martin on a foul pop to Robinson.

Turley turned back another bid, too, in that inning as Gilliam led off with a walk, but

Reese, attempting a sacrifice

bunt, popped to Berra. Snider walked, moving Gilliam to second, and Junior became the first Dodger to reach second base in 14 innings. The threat was choked off when Robinson and Hodges both popped up.

Once more in the eighth, both teams threatened those laboring

PLAY-BY-PLAY

No runs, one hit, no errors,

Dodgers—Hodges walked on five pitches, and Kucks again warmed up in the Yankee bullpen.

Amoros bounced to Collins, whose throw to McDougald forced Hodges. Amoros reaching first on the forceout.

Furillo worked the count to 2 and 2 and then struck out.

Campanella fanned on a 2 and 2 pitch.

No runs, no hits, no errors;

one left.

THIRD INNING

Yankees—Carey filed to Furillo in deep right centre.

Turley tapped in front of the plate and Lapine tossed him out easily.

Bauer lined a 1 and 2 pitch into centre field for a single,

the Yankees' third hit off La-bine.

Reese knocked Collins' sizzler through the middle but could not make a play, Bauer reaching second on the single.

Mantle bounced to Hodges on Lapine's first pitch.

No runs, two hits, no errors,

Dodgers—Lapine struck out

Turley's third consecutive strikeout victim and fourth of the game.

Gilliam hit the first ball and lifted an easy fly to left field, which Slaughter apparently lost in the sun. The ball dropped safely for a single but Gilliam was out attempting to make second, Slaughter to Martin.

Reese accidentally lifted a loping fly toward right field which Collins took on the outfield grass.

No runs, one hit, no errors;

none left.

FOURTH INNING

Yankees—Berra rolled to Gilliam on Lapine's first pitch.

Slaughter also hit the first pitch—and filed to Snider in deep centre.

Martin sliced a 1 and 1 pitch on one bounce off the right field wall for a single.

McDougald filed to Amoros.

No runs, one hit, no errors,

one left.

Dodgers—Snider went down swinging.

Robinson walked on four straight pitches for the second base on balls off Turley.

Hodges filed to Bauer on Turley's first pitch.

Amoros popped to Carey.

No runs, no hits, no errors,

one left.

FIFTH INNING

Yankees—Carey filed to Furillo in right centre on Lapine's first pitch.

Turley ran the count to 3 and 2, then popped to Hodges between first base and the mound.

Bauer filed to Amoros in short left.

No runs, no hits, no errors,

none left.

Dodgers—Furillo went down swinging on a 2 and 2 pitch.

Campanella also went out swinging on a 1 and 2 pitch, for Turley's seventh strikeout victim.

Lapine fanned on three pitches.

No runs, no hits, no errors,

one left.

SIXTH INNING

Yankees—Collins filed to Snider close to the right centre field wall.

Mantle bounced to Gilliam, who made a fine back-handed play on Lapine's first pitch.

Berra lined a two-strike pitch into right centre, sliding head-

ACROSS B.C.

SEVENTH INNING

Yankees—The attendance was 33,224.

McDougald was called out on strikes.

Carey bounced out to Reese on Lapine's first pitch.

Turley bounced to Lapine.

No runs, no hits, no errors,

none left.

Dodgers—Amoros was called out on strikes.

Furillo filed to Bauer.

Campanella struck out.

No runs, no hits, no errors,

none left.

EIGHTH INNING

Yankees—Bauer struck out.

Collins doubled off the right field scoreboard.

Don Bessent warmed up in the Brooklyn bullpen.

Berra filed to Snider.

Slaughter bounced to Gilliam.

No runs, one hit, no errors,

two left.

Dodgers—Lapine's fly dropped

line and bounced into the stands for a double.

Gilliam struck out.

Reese filed to Mantle.

Snider was purposely walked.

Robinson popped to Carey.

No runs, one hit, no errors,

NINTH INNING

Yankees—Martin bounced to Robinson.

McDougald struck out.

No runs, no hits, no errors,

none left.

Dodgers—Hodges bounced out to Turley.

Amoros walked.

Furillo filed to Slaughter.

Campanella filed to Mantle.

No runs, no hits, no errors,

one left.

TENTH INNING

Yankees—Turley struck out.

Bauer grounded out to Reese.

Collins bounced out to Gilliam.

No runs, no hits, no errors,

none left.

Dodgers—Lapine filed to Martin in short centre.

Gilliam walked.

Reese bunted and was out,

Turley to Collins, Gilliam going to second.

Snider was purposely walked.

Robinson singled over

Slaughter's head, Gilliam scoring to win the game for the Dodgers, 1-0.

two left.

RAYNER

They said before this year's series began that something brilliant would be needed to offset the "anti-climatic" feeling after the humid National League pennant race, that it would be hard to match that last week of the race to the wire of Brooklyn and the Milwaukee

Braves.

When the Dodgers romped to victory in the first two games of the series over a sad crew of Yankees, it appeared to be a very dull, post-season affair.

Larsen changed it all, of course.

It will now be known forever as the "series with the perfect game," and those 64,519 paid witnesses in the stadium will never forget it.

Tension hummed softly through the vast structure as Larsen and loser Sal Maglie, brilliant himself in defeat, matched pinpoint in the first three innings.

Larsen got through the fourth easily enough but Maglie after retiring the first 10 men in a row, served an inside pitch to

Mickey Mantle and the Okla-

right-field lower deck for a home run.

From then on the big, raw-boned Yankee righthander was the centre of a seething, whispering pressure cauldron. When he started the eighth inning the crowd began roaring with every strike and every putout.

The ninth was a continuous uproar as he got Carl Furillo

Twenty Years Over a Hot Stove

SEVERAL years ago a small and interesting pamphlet arrived in our house. Nobody seemed to know where it came from, but it listed wedding anniversaries and, if memory serves, carried suggestions on gifts suitable for each.

Its appearance under our roof was completely casual—probably came in the mail with advertising circulars, I was told. And just as casually it used to show up each October on the coffee table or smoker. That was an odd coincidence. I was married in October.

Until its arrival I had believed there were only three definite anniversaries—silver after 25 years of travel in double harness, golden after 50 years, and diamond after 60.

How wrong I was. The little pamphlet informed me that there were—and again I'm trusting an unreliable memory—a paper anniversary, a wooden anniversary, a tin anniversary, and so on. That pleased me.

SOMETHING IN PAPER I remember distinctly the flourish with which I presented the little lady with a copy of The Victoria Daily Times on our paper milestone. When the year turned up wood, I went spendy and bought a bunch of salad bowls, to which the scent of garlic and cupboard dust now clings. The year we were due for something in tin, a friend brought over a galvanized bucket, which is still handy after we've lifted the pump for winter at Shawigan.

About that time the little pamphlet of October blooming disappeared, quite as mysteriously as it arrived. The gift suggestions were beginning to invite pretty substantial expenditure and times were hard.

I have no more idea of where the list went than the boss of our house has of where it came from originally.

So another October rolls around and I have no pamphlet to guide me. It isn't time yet for something in silver, but, recalling the arithmetic progression of expense listed for each succeeding year in the gift suggestions, the tribute to the better half of our combination should be fairly handsome.

I guess all husbands have the same difficulty I have in making a proper selection. Wives always know exactly what to buy for husbands—like the time in our house when the little lady decided I ought to have half a dozen nice cups and saucers because they'd be so handy for Tom 'n' Jerry at Christmas. Once before, under similar circumstances, I allowed my imagination full play and bought the boss of our house a pretty magnificent present. It was a brand new Swedish buck-saw, with fine tempered blade and tubular handle painted bright yellow.

At the time I figured it was the best buck-saw on the market. Light, too. Even a child could handle it. With a piece of equipment like that I thought any woman would find saving a pleasure. Not only that, it promised to give a housewife the exercise for those muscles which are too often neglected by a woman around the home.

I didn't quite understand the restraint of her enthusiasm when I presented the shiny new tool. In the years since, I've been forced to the reluctant conclusion that a buck-saw wasn't exactly what she wanted. She hasn't cut a stick with it yet.

I don't plan to make the same mistake again. This year, now, I've got my eye on something good. I can buy a second-hand outboard for less than a hundred bucks. That looks to be the answer to this anniversary quandary. What more could a woman want than a three-horse, hardly-used second-hand outboard?

DOUBLE PURPOSE

And it could be a lot more than a mere show of appreciation to her. The boss of our house, who has courage to burn in most crises, is scared of the Strait. For any sea running with waves above a foot-and-one-half she wants to be aboard the Queen Mary. If she doesn't get over that phobia soon, it'll stay with her all her life.

So if she gets a three-horse slightly-used outboard from me, and it costs nearly a hundred bucks, she'll more or less have to go out on the water and conquer her nervousness. Yep, it would have a double purpose, emotionally gratifying as a symbol of appreciation for her companionship and character building as it forced her to overcome a dread of the water.

Of course, maybe I could use it a little, too, just on Saturdays, Sundays, holidays and after work on weekdays.

If she could sort of put a hundred bucks my way, it looks as if she could get herself a wonderful present. If she doesn't see it that way, she's still got those top two candles with coconut on them that came in the dollar-thirty-five boxes.

Nasser Proving He Can Run Canal

PORT SAID, Egypt (UP)—Despite the gloomy predictions of Western pilots who quit their jobs on the Suez Canal, traffic still is moving smoothly through the waterway.

Egypt however is receiving little cash benefit from it.

Since July 26 when President Gamal Abdel Nasser nationalized the old Suez Canal Co., 2,865 ships have moved through the 101-mile waterway but only an estimated 40 per cent of them have paid fees to Egypt.

The remaining 60 per cent, mainly British and French ships, still pay their dues to the old company's accounts in London and Paris. Egypt cannot touch these funds.

DECLINE IN TRAFFIC

There also has been a slight decline in the flow of shipping through the canal since the walkout of Western employees. But indications are that the tide is gradually rising again. The Egyptians claim they have solved their pilot problem through rapid recruitment and training of foreign and local mariners. But most of their pilots still are working incredibly long hours to get the ships through.

These old company pilots often work 15 hours or more at a stretch to take a ship the whole length of the canal, snatch a few hours sleep, and then take another convoy back again.

The first few new pilots recruited have been allowed to take ships through the canal alone after training only a few weeks. The old company often required years of training.

According to the Egyptians, foreign pilots now include 10 Americans, 15 Russians, 19 Germans, 11 Yugoslavs, 30 Greeks, 11 Poles, five Norwegians, two Spaniards, two Rumanians, seven Italians, one Swede and one Lithuanian.

In the past few days the accident rate has increased slightly with three minor groundings reported in less than 48 hours.

LCB to Boycott Distillers As Five More Boost Prices

B.C. Liquor Control Board will boycott two of the distillers who last week increased their prices until they reply to official protests.

Attorney-General Robert Bonner said today no new orders for liquor produced by Seagram's and Alberta Distillers will be placed until the distillers answer protests from the liquor boards of B.C., Alberta, Saskatchewan and Manitoba.

His announcement came as five more liquor manufacturers notified the B.C. board of price boosts up to 15 per cent, following the example set last week by Seagram's, Alberta Distillers and Canadian Schenley.

They are Corby Distillery Ltd., Gooderham & Worts, Meagher Bros. Ltd., Hiram Walker & Sons Ltd., and Melcher's Distilleries.

Redpath & Son, bottlers of gin, also announced an increase. It is understood the B.C. board will take the same boycott action against all distillers who have increased their prices, but the attorney-general would not confirm this immediately.

NO REPLIES

Neither Mr. Bonner nor Col. Donald McGugan, LCB chairman, have had any word of a reply to the protest which took the form of a letter sent by the Alberta LCB chairman with the support of the other western provinces.

"There is no estimate yet as to how much of the increase would be passed on to the consumer," Mr. Bonner said. "But the general increase to the liquor boards would be 15 or 16 per cent."

Mr. Bonner was asked if the cessation of orders placed with Seagram's and Alberta distillers would be continued if the increases were put into effect.

VODKA NO CHEAPER

"We will meet that problem when it arises," he said.

To a suggestion that vodka might be offered to the Canadian public as an alternative, the attorney-general said he did not think the sale of vodka would offer much of an economy in price.

He agreed, however, that larger supplies of cider might conceivably be offered as the experimental manufacture and sale of cider in the Okanagan had been "very well received" and it would be a useful adjunct to the B.C. apple industry.

"We would be prepared to give the cider industry any assistance the product justified," Mr. Bonner said.

BETWEEN TIMES

By

MONTE ROBERTS

Some people are happy, some people are unhappy. For instance:

In the happy division, we nominate the gentleman involved in a lengthy discussion of baseball statistics, the World Series games of years gone by.

As memories of mighty bats and felicitous fielding bounced back and forth among his conferees, this happy gentleman kept nodding his head and murmuring, "ah, but there was 1935. THAT was a GOOD year."

The others in the discussion group brought forth tales of Ruth and Gehrig and the Gashouse Gang, and Rube Wadell, and Mickey Cochrane's dropped third strike.

Still this happy gentleman kept saying, "Ah, 1935. That was a GOOD year."

Finally someone turned on him and asked, what was so good about 1935?

"1935?" replied this happy gentleman, a slow smile lighting his face. "In 1935, I lived in Detroit, and the Detroiters beat the Chicago Cubs for the World Championship of Baseball. Also," added the happy gentleman, "in 1935 my Old Man won the Irish Sweep, my sister was born, and my grandfather died."

"That was a good year, 1935," said the happy gentleman, "especially about the Detroiters winning the World Series."

Then there is the unhappy gentleman.

I encountered him as he sat sipping a drink which was definitely not non-alcoholic, and puffing at a cigaret.

Naturally, I expressed some surprise, because I know this gentleman neither drank nor smoked. So I asked him why.

"I was trying to be funny," he said, unhappily. "I went in to see a doctor, just for a check-up. And when it came to the part where the doctor asks how much alcohol you consume, and how many cigaerets you smoke, I said I drank about a bottle a day, and smoked two or three packs a day."

Hah, hah, ha, I said, that was real funny.

"Hah, ha, yourself," said the unhappy gentleman, taking a tentative swallow of his drink and looking sadly at the smouldering end of his cigaret. "After the doctor completed the examination, he told me I was 100 A-1 with Lloyds, but I had better change my drinking and smoking habits."

"The doctor told me," the unhappy gentleman reported, "I had better smoke 10 cigaerets a day and drink six ounces of alcohol a day, instead of three packs and a bottle a day. 'A man can't go against his doctor's advice, can he?'" said the unhappy gentleman, ordering another drink and lighting another cigaret.

TOPICS OF THE TIMES

Vancouver Island Organ Club will present a concert in aid of Foursquare Gospel Church, 891 Esquimalt Road, Friday at 8 p.m.

Reginald Stone will be at the console of the organ and George Willis will show color travel films of Scotland and England.

City engineer J. C. Garnett told city public works committee today he will need an additional $12,000 to complete a beautification project on Dallas Road this year. Extra expense was warranted by necessity to widen curve at Dallas and Douglas by building seawall embankment with 3,000 cubic feet of rock. Committee will ask council to request more funds from Capital Improvement District Commission which is paying for present $100,000 project. It is anticipated the completion of work will be stalled until next year.

Victorians who may note strange lights in the early evening sky, from today until Sunday, can be reassured.

They will be U.S. Navy searchlights, carrying out exercises between Whitty Island and Victoria.

Exercises will be carried out from 6 to 10.30 p.m. daily.

U.S. Air Force plans air-to-air rocket firing southwest of Cape Flattery, 6 a.m. to 6 p.m. today until Friday, and air-to-air gunnery firing during the same periods Oct. 13 and 14.

Local association of Brownies and Girl Guides in Cordova Bay will hold a penny fair at St. David's By the Sea Church, Cordova Bay, Friday at 7 p.m.

Stalls will include "Green Thumb," home products, fish pond, and games for young and old. Admission will be one cent.

Newfoundland Club will meet in the Orange Hall, 725 Courtney Street, for a "pot-luck" supper Thursday at 6.45 p.m.

There will be a special meeting Thursday at 8 p.m. of the Scouters Council at headquarters. This is an important meeting as it will decide whether the council will continue to hold meetings or disband. Meetings have been poorly attended during the past year. New leaders are urged to attend.

Botany on the West Coast will be the subject of an address tonight at 8 for the Victoria Natural History Society.

The meeting, in the provincial museum, will be addressed by Dr. Adam Szczawinski.

William J. Welbourn, 2740 Dufferin, was fined $250 in Oak Bay police court Saturday on a charge of driving while his ability to do so was impaired by alcohol.

Frederick Fox, Sidney, was fined $10 in city court today for crossing a double solid centre line with his car on Douglas Street.

Ernest Joseph Lenzen, Victoria, was fined $25 for driving without a B.C. licence when he appeared in city police court today.

Election of officers will be held at a meeting of the Lansdowne Junior High School PTA next Monday at 8 p.m.

Ex-SPCA Inspector Posed As Doctor, Woman Testifies

Evidence was given in Assize Court today that Benjamin Robert Maggs, facing trial on charges of attempted abortion and indecent assault, posed as a doctor on April 1 of this year.

The trial is the first to be heard before the Fall Criminal Assizes which opened today at the court house with Mr. Justice Harold McInnes presiding.

A. B. McPhillips is Crown counsel while James Proudfoot is defence counsel.

Joyce Margaret Billings, complainant in the trial, told a 12-man jury that Maggs came to her home on April 1 and introduced himself as a medical practitioner. She said at the time she was pregnant.

Earlier, Crown counsel said he would bring in evidence to show that Maggs, ex-inspector of the SPCA here, posed as a medical practitioner and

PGE Building Branch Moves To Vancouver

Construction department of the Pacific Great Eastern Railway is being moved from Victoria to Vancouver, J. S. Broadbent, newly appointed general manager in succession to Einar Gunderson, confirmed today.

Transfer of the department to the mainland means that about 18 personnel now working in Victoria will have to make their homes in Vancouver in order to work at head office.

Mr. Broadbent has resigned as deputy minister of railways and left the civil service in order to take over his new PGE post. He has transferred to head office and will live in Vancouver.

NO GLOOM

He spoke enthusiastically of the new extension of the railway from Vancouver to Squamish, opened on Aug. 27, and said pessimistic predictions concerning the line were "unfounded."

"We have a geological report which states that the extension has been very well constructed and is as safe as any railway could be."

"True, we have had small stoppages but these are in the normal course of events and give no grounds for alarm."

Mr. Broadbent said the two trains now operating daily between Vancouver and Squamish are handling more than 300 passengers a day.

"This is even more than we expected," he said.

Hillclimb Winner Nips at Record

For the fourth consecutive year, Victoria motorcyclist John Collyer won Vancouver Island hill climb championship at Victoria Motorcycle Club's annual meet Monday at Mount Douglas.

He came within a tenth of a second of matching the club record—of 5.7 seconds—set by him on the hazardous course.

More than 900 showed up to watch the trials which were run off without serious injury to competitors or spectators.

Joe Hyde was the most seriously shaken up, but recovered to continue after his bike slipped from under him.

Other events and winners were:

Mayor Scurrah said the pinballs are licensed and legal at present if they don't pay off. "... but they are very hard to catch up with."

"If these things are going on in the city, we want to know about it and we will take steps to stop it." He said he had not contacted the RCMP. "I don't think it is a matter for them. That is probably why they have taken no action if they have information (as the New Westminster story stated)."

Traffic Circle Cost $40,000

Ricochet Shot Wounds Hunter

First reported hunting accident this season in Victoria area sent George Adams, 42, 1275 Rudlin, to St. Joseph's Hospital Saturday afternoon with a gunshot wound above his right knee.

He was reported in satisfactory condition today recovering from the wound, which occurred as he and a companion, Harold Sahlin, 1275 Queens, hunted deer in the Highlands above Goldstream flats.

DASH FOR AID

Sahlin carried Adams on his back down the rugged mountainside in an exhausting dash for aid, then left him at a logging trail while he ran a mile to where they had parked their car.

He then drove the car to where Adams waited, got him in and made for St. Joseph's Hospital, a distance of 13 miles.

Mrs. Adams explained the accident as it was described to her. The two hunters had spotted a deer and Sahlin took a shot at it with his heavy rifle. The shot missed, but the bullet ricocheted from a tree, striking Adams in the leg.

Expert Gives Estimate To Public Works Body

Cost of tearing out the Hillside-Douglas roundabout and replacing it with a new traffic junction, recently suggested by United States traffic consultant Jackson D. Faustman, is estimated at $40,000.

Victoria council public works committee met with Mr. Faustman today at City Hall.

It was indicated the committee favors use of "scramble" pedestrian crossings at two downtown corners — Douglas and Yates and Douglas and Fort.

These were highlights of the first discussion of a plan to improve city traffic as suggested by the traffic expert some weeks ago.

NO DECISION

For the most part, the committee discussed the earlier proposals. No decision was reached but it was decided to hold a meeting of council as a committee with Mr. Faustman following a regular council meeting Thursday.

Mayor Percy Scurrah asked whether the traffic engineer had considered cutting Government and Gorge out of the Hillside-Douglas intersection with a dividing boulevard, as was suggested years ago by former city traffic engineer Robert Doble.

Mr. Faustman said he felt this would just distribute the nothing.

NAVAL SHIP MOVEMENTS

James Bay and Cordova left today on exercises, return Oct. 17.

Fortie Quebec returns Nov. 7. Problem to other intersections, not solve it.

Mayor Scurrah enquired about the "scramble" pedestrian crosswalks, such as are used in Vancouver. Under this plan all lights are red for traffic for a period and pedestrians may walk in any direction, including cater-corner.

Mr. Faustman suggested it be tried at two intersections for 90 days. He said cost would be about $3,500, but if it didn't work the signals could be re-installed elsewhere.

He felt the worst effect the scramble corners could have would be to spoil the traffic synchronization now in effect on Douglas. On the other hand, he pointed out, such corners cut pedestrian accidents almost to nothing.

Health Board Debates Ban on Hens, Rabbits

Victoria-Esquamalt Area May Be Closed to Livestock

A proposal to outlaw keeping of poultry, rabbits or other small livestock in areas under its control will be discussed by Victoria-Esquamalt Union Board of Health.

The board will also consider possible curtailing of operations of horse-drawn trolleys in the city, as a health measure.

Chairman of the board, Esquamalt councillor G. K. Sammon called the meeting for 2.30 p.m. next Tuesday.

It is understood that health officials oppose keeping of poultry and livestock in urban areas due to the attraction of rats to feeding places. A poultry keeping by-law now in effect in the city sets regulations which make such an activity difficult.

Any by-law which would make such an act illegal would probably give people now keeping chickens a reasonable time to make other arrangements.

Objection to the horse-drawn trolley is because of manure on city streets.

Chairman Sammon said the board will study new figures regarding operation of the Saanich health unit relative to the current drive to amalgamate all district health bodies.

Oak Bay officials are expected to meet with the board to discuss proposals which would include Oak Bay in the Union Board of Health. Oak Bay Reeve F. E. Norris said today no decision had yet been reached by his council.

"It's not exactly what we wanted," he said of the proposal.

ASK THE TIMES

Q.—When was Prince George incorporated?

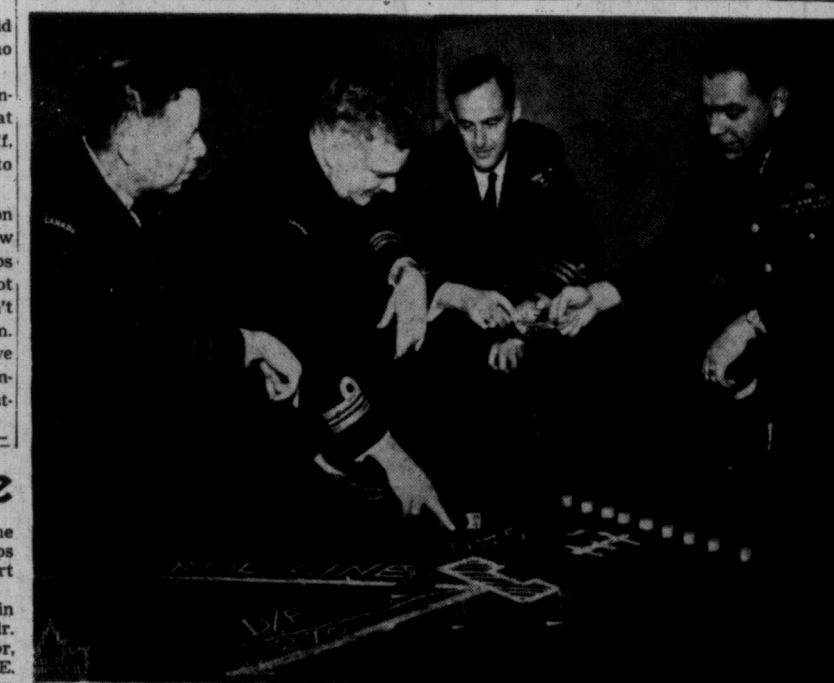

A.—The Cyclopaedia of Canada records events as follows: "On the amalgamation of the North West and Hudson's Bay Companies it (Fort George), established in 1807 by Simon Fraser for the North West Co., was taken over by the latter (H.B. Co.). It was a mere fur trading post until 1908 or 1909, when the Grand Trunk Pacific, now the Canadian National, was surveyed through to Prince Rupert. Settlement began as construction progressed, and in March, 1915, the municipality was incorporated as the city of Fort George; later in the same year the name was changed to Prince George."

Q.—In what literary work appears the line, "Variety is the spice of life?"—D.N.G.

A.—That line, actually "Variety is the very spice of life," is line 606 of the Timepiece, in The Task, Book II, by William Cowper.

Q.—Anyone wishing a question answered is invited to send the problem along to The Times, addressed to "Ask The Times" Editor. Questions and answers will be published daily.

All questions should deal with matters of fact and be of general interest. The Times does not undertake to solve conundrums.

Naden Teaching Anti-Sub Warfare

First anti-submarine warfare course for navy and airforce officers to be conducted on the west coast opened at HMCS Naden today, with 58 RCN and RCAF and USN officers attending.

In the past this course has been given at the joint maritime warfare school, Halifax. This year, all candidates for the course are serving in western Canada, so the instructional staff was brought to the students.

Those enrolled include 25 RCN officers from Pacific Command Ships; 29 aircrew officers from the RCAF station, Comox, and four officers from the U.S. Navy.

The course will take three weeks, two of which will be spent in classrooms at the Na-

den torpedo anti-submarine school, and one at sea in ships of the Second Canadian Escort Squadron.

The senior instructor is Lt.-Cmdr. D. M. MacLennan and the chief instructor Squadron Leader C. G. Agnew, RCAF.

SHOPPING GUIDE

Thanksgiving Is Over . . .
And Christmas Is Coming

By PENNY SAVER

Jingle bells, jingle bells . . . Don't mind me, I've caught the spirit of the stores, and have started thinking about Christmas and seasonal shopping trips. There are some very good "long-before-Christmas" buys around town.

You can buy Christmas cards, wrapping and party supplies at amazingly low prices right now, so take advantage of the opportunity to stock up before the rush.

Napkins patterned all over with snow scenes, Santas, snowmen and poinsettia arrangements come in bundles of 100 and are just 39 cents. With a bargain like this at hand, I'm sure you'll understand why I'm pushing the season.

These napkins, made in Denmark are the linen-like paper ones that have proved so popular before. If you want some for everyday use, there are other patterns, in a host of colors, for your choice, all at the same price.

In a children's store I found something to please the heart of any little girl. Fur, in almost any form, gives a female, no matter what the age, a feeling of luxury. A soft and cozy fur muff with a tie on cap-bonnet to match will make any outing a dress-up occasion for the little miss who wears them. Made of Orlon and dyed that will resist marking, and will stand up under the hardest wear, this set feels just like bunny fur. The set is yours for $4.98. An excellent Christmas gift idea.

Of brushed wool that holds the warmth so effectively are the hat and scarf sets for the older girls.

For your telephone at home or at the office, here's an ear pad that will be a boon, especially if the telephone surroundings are noisy. These sponge rubber pads have an adhesive surface on one side so that you just press it onto the ear phone. It stops the phone from pressing against women's earrings, and stops outside noise as well. Washable, it can be easily removed. The price is 35 cents.

Interested in the items mentioned? Then call me at 2-3131 and I'll tell you where to find them.

HADASSA BAZAAR

Showing some of the delicacies to be on sale, Oct. 17, at the Hadassa Bazaar in the Temple Emmanuel, are Mrs. H. Kramer, tea convener; Mrs. J. Krasney, president, and Mrs. E. There will be door prizes and stalls of home cooking, aprons, handicrafts and Christmas gifts.

Cooper-Mann Wedding
Solemnized Recently

Gowned in a bridal dress of satin taffeta with an overlay of lace and net, Miss Wilma Doreen Louise Mann, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. I. Mann, 3030 Washington Avenue, entered Douglas Street Baptist Church recently to become the bride of George Thomas Cooper, son of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Cooper, 155 Burnside Road West. Rev. J. Barton of West Vancouver officiated at the ceremony which was performed in a setting of fall flowers. Mrs. G. Gillie, soloist, was accompanied by organist Mrs. E. Heyer.

The bride, given in marriage by her father wore with her ballerina-length, pearl and sequin-embroidered gown a shoulder-length veil highlighted with sequins. A pearl tiara held her misting veil, and completing her ensemble, she carried a bouquet of white carnations and red roses.

Maid of honor was Miss Barbara Mann, gowning in a pink net over taffeta dress, and junior bridesmaid, Miss Evelyn Cooper, in a blue net over taffeta dress. They wore wrist-length gloves and carried colonial bouquets to match their gowns.

The groom had his brother, Robert Cooper, as best man and W. Swan and B. Waters as ushers. A reception was held in the Kiwanianes, rummage sale, Saturday, Public Market, 7 a.m. Florence Nightingale Chapter, IODE, Wednesday, 2 p.m., home of Mrs. I. Mellor, 1120 Oxford Street.

Came Rebekah Lodge, bazaar meeting, Thursday, home of Mrs. V. Hart, 836 Falkland Road.

WEDDING THIS MONTH

Oct. 27 has been chosen as the date for the wedding of Miss Lilian Elizabeth Marshall, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Marshall, 3167 Shelbourne Street, and Mr. Esfil Ludvig Johnson, son of Mr. Bror Johnson, of Calgary and the late Mrs. Johnson. The ceremony will take place in Belmont United Church. Miss Marshall graduated from University of British Columbia in 1956 with a degree in Nursing, and Mr. Johnson, in Engineering. Miss Wilma Parker will be maid of honor and Miss Helen Gray, bridesmaid. Mr. Lawrence Johnson of Calgary, will be best man, and ushers will be Mr. Kenneth Hanson, Calgary, and Mr. James E. Marshall, Victoria. (Photos by Krass and Campbell Studios, Vancouver.)

Widow Advised to Join
Groups to Meet Men

Q—"Is there any possibility for romance for a 35-year-old widow with two children? They are school age and I would be so happy if it could be a whole family again. I meet no men in my work. I am just ordinary looking and have a very good disposition. Is a case like mine hopeless? If not, how does one meet eligible men? I net you get thousands of letters like this one."

A—"I do not think age has anything to do with it except that there are naturally fewer unmarried men the older the age group is. I certainly do not think your case is hopeless but you will have to join groups where you will meet men; church groups, adult education classes, classes in some hobby which both men and women like, such as handicrafts. Many YWCAs and YMCAs have special nights when both men and women participate in the program.

Men and women need companionship with the opposite sex. However, do not think of every man you meet as a potential husband or you will scare them all off. Let things develop naturally.

RCMP Law Enforcement to Cost More

MINNEDOSA, Man. (AP)—Municipalities using the RCMP for law enforcement will be charged higher rates for these services starting June 1, Justice Minister Garson announced today.

The present charge, now roughly 40 per cent of the operating cost of each RCMP member under contract will be increased to 50 per cent in small towns and to 75 per cent in municipalities with a population of 5,000 or more requiring more than five members of the force.

Dunton Attacks 'Mudslinging'

OTTAWA (CP)—CBC board chairman A. D. Dunton said today that the CBC—as individuals—would like to be rid of the job of regulating private broadcasters if the organized private stations continued a "mudslinging" campaign against the corporation.

Opening the CBC's final submission to the Royal Commission on Broadcasting he attacked what he described as a propaganda campaign by the Canadian Association of Radio and Television Broadcasters.

NEARLY CRUSHED

Mob Breaks Cordon
To See Princess

DAR ES SALAAM, Tanganyika (AP)—A surging mob broke through police cordons today and staged a near-riot when Princess Margaret stepped from her car to watch tribal dances here.

Members of her party joined regular police and special constables in forming a human chain around the princess to fight off hundreds of excited Africans struggling to touch her clothing.

The mob completely overran the dancers lined up to meet the princess.

WIVES JOIN IN

Wives of British officials joined in protecting the princess. Linking hands with them were administrative officers in ceremonial white dress uniforms with dress swords and white pith helmets.

Screaming African women in multi-colored headcloths were to the fore in the frenzied crowds.

The cordon protecting the princess slowly sought its way back to the Royal car, and Princess Margaret slipped inside.

PRINCESS UNAWARE

One of those who formed a cordon round the princess said she was "quite unperturbed"—she did not realize how near she was to being crushed.

"Administrative officers and their wives in the royal procession of cars behind the princess fortunately saw the danger. They piled out of their cars and joined in the cordon."

Mayor Ponders
Pinball Ban
As Racket Aired

Mayor Percy Scourrah announced today he will investigate possibility of banning all pinball machines in Victoria.

"I am getting a legal opinion as to whether the city has power to prohibit them entirely, with the idea of getting rid of them."

POLICE ACTION

The New Westminster story said an unnamed 28-year-old Victoria man admitted quitting a pinball organization here because he felt "... the police would get wise."

The man is alleged to have given the New Westminster reporter names and addresses of operators in Victoria, Alberni, Vancouver, Toronto and Montreal. He said further he had given certain information and documents regarding the operation to the RCMP in Victoria more than a year ago.

He is alleged to have told the reporter that if his information was made public a gunman might be brought here from Chicago to extract revenge.

CONTROLLED

"Any electrical engineer could well prove that there is a controlling unit inside the machines to make the machine stop at certain positions so they will not play liberally," the informant was quoted.

The mayor and Ald. M. H. Mooney and Ald. Arthur Dowell all expressed doubt in the reported facts that the man had watched one pinball gambler.

Boy Slain by Pal Accidentally

The violent death toll for B.C. stood at 13 today as British Columbians, together with the rest of Canada returned to work after the Thanksgiving weekend.

In the whole of Canada there were 71 holiday fatalities, two less than the 1955 total.

Drownings and traffic mishaps made up eight of the B.C. deaths. Five persons were drowned and traffic claimed three.

The other five tragedies in the province ranged from suffocation to accidental shooting.

Richard Coates, 29, of New Westminster, became the Greater Vancouver area's 45th domestic gas victim of the year Monday afternoon. Coates was found dead by his wife and seven-year-old son when they returned to the family home after being out for several hours.

Hudson G. Jones of Vancouver drowned at Ladner. His death turned a family outing into a Sunday afternoon tragedy.

The 76-year-old man was walking on Gilley's wharf, near River Road, when he suffered a dizzy spell and toppled into the water. He had been on an outing with his wife, his son, his daughter-in-law and his grandchildren.

A 14-year-old Kamloops district boy was killed when struck by a bullet from a .30-30 rifle at noon Monday.

Royal Canadian Mounted Police at Kamloops said Danny Stewart of Westside, was accidentally slain by a 14-year-old friend. They declined to release the name of the boy, and said he was in hospital being treated for shock.

Andy Manuel, 70-year-old Indian, drowned late Sunday when he fell into the South Thompson river while crossing a bridge that separates Kamloops from a nearby Indian reservation.

Sharon De Grose, two months old, suffocated in her crib in her Vancouver home shortly before midnight Saturday.

WIFE SUES SERIES HERO
LARSEN; HE SENDS $420

NEW YORK (AP)—A few hours after his estranged wife started a state Supreme Court action Monday aimed at withholding his world series money, pitcher Don (No-Hit) Larsen of New York Yankees sent her $420.

The action, lodged by Vivian A. Larsen a few hours before her husband pitched the first perfect game in world series history as Yankees defeated Dodgers 2-0, claimed the pitcher owed her $420 in back support payments.

The court order, returnable Oct. 16 requires Larsen, the New York Yankee Baseball Club and Ford Frick, commissioner of baseball, to show cause why Larsen's world series money should not be withheld from him and set aside for support payments.

In papers filed by Mrs. Larsen, she said she and the pitcher were married April 23, 1955, and that he deserted her a few months later. She said he is required by a court order signed by Supreme Court Justice Henry C. Greenberg on July 16, 1956, to pay her $60 weekly support.

HOW DODGERS CAME BACK
PLAY BY PLAY BY UNITED PRESS

FIRST INNING
Yankees—Bauer looped a 2 and 2 pitch into short center field for a single.

Collins took a ball and then hit into a double play, Gilliam to Reese to Hodges.

Mantle grounded to Gilliam, on a 3 and 0 pitch.

Dodgers—Johnny Kucks was warming up in the Yankee bullpen before Turley even made his first pitch.

Martin fielded Gilliam's bouncer in front of second base and made a neat, tumbling throw for the putout.

Reese worked the count to 3 and 2 and then went down swinging.

Snider lined a 2 and 2 pitch into left center field for a single, the Dodgers' first hit since

Robinson lined a 1 and 2 pitch to McDougald.

SECOND INNING
Yankees—Berra lined a 1 and 0 pitch off the right-field wall but was held to a single when Furillo played the carom perfectly.

Slaughter bounced to Gilliam, who made an underhand toss to Reese, forcing Berra, but there was no play on Slaughter, who reached first on the fielder's choice.

McDougald went down swinging.

Stengel Tells How His Strategy Failed

By WILL GRIMSLEY

BROOKLYN (AP)—The direction of the wind dictated the defensive strategy that backfired for the New York Yankees today—and neither manager Casey Stengel nor losing pitcher Bob Turley offered any apologies.

"We had to walk Snider and pitch to Robinson," Stengel said. "There was no other way to do it."

Twice with men in scoring position—in the eighth and again in the 10th Turley walked Duke Snider intentionally to get to Jackie Robinson.

The first time Robinson popped weakly to third base. The second time he lined a hit to leftfield with two out to score Junior Gilliam with the run which beat the Yankees, 1-0, and carried the world series into the climactic seventh game Wednesday.

THE WIND DID IT

"First of all, I didn't want Turley pitching to that left-hander (Snider)," Stengel said, "but the main thing was the wind. It was blowing out toward right field and in toward home plate from left. So the odds were with us."

Turley, beaten despite a magnificent performance, said "I'll have to go with the manager all the way on that."

"There was a man on second in scoring position (Gilliam). Snider can club a ball off the end of his bat and hit the ball against the right field wall to beat me. I know Robinson has to have a good luck."

"He got one. I have no alibis on it. I threw him a fast ball, just where I wanted it. He got a lot of wood on it, and that was the ball game."

Stengel, who had hoped to clinch his sixth world championship today, announced he would send righthander Johnny Kucks to the mound in Wednesday's vital game, with Whitey

JACKIE WORRIED

In the Dodger dressing room Jackie Robinson said that for an agonizing moment he thought the ball he smashed to left field in the 10th inning of the sixth world series game was headed straight for Enos Slaughter's glove.

"Then it seemed to take off, over his head," said Jackie, grinning broadly. "So I just trotted to first because I knew if it was in there we had the game won."

"I knew I hit it well, like a shot. It was a low fast ball. And I sure hoped it would take off."

So did all the other Dodgers, who cut loose in their dressing room after their 10-inning 1-0 victory over the New York Yankees. It was by far the noisiest demonstration to date.

Now that the series stands 3-all with Wednesday's game the decider, manager Walt Alston said he would send to the mound his 27-game winner, Don Newcombe, who so far has run into bad luck in the series.

Robinson and all the other Dodgers had warm praise for Bob Turley, the Yankee starter who pitched a masterful shut-out game for nine innings.

Dodgers Battle Back
To Even Series, 3-3

By OSCAR FRALEY

United Press Sports Writer
BROOKLYN (UP)—Aging Jackie Robinson, writing baseball history once again with an ever potent bat, slashed a clutch single which broke a 10-inning scoreless tie and defeated the New York Yankees, 1-0, today to square the world series for the Brooklyn Dodgers at three games each.

Robinson, nearing the end of the baseball trail, had left five base runners stranded previously against the 95-mile-an-hour fast ball of Bullet Bob Turley. But finally, with two out in the 10th inning and two men on via walks, the man who broke baseball's color line banged out the hit which carried Clem Labine to victory in the first World Series shutout at Ebbets Field in 36 years.

STUCK OUT 11

It was a heart-breaking blow to Turley, for the big man had struck out 11 Dodger hitters as 33,224 hung breathlessly on Brooklyn's back-to-the-wall annual classic. Until the 10th, Turley had given those grim-faced Dodgers only three hits.

But then, with Junior Gilliam straining off second from a walk and Duke Snider at first on an intentional pass, old Jackie walloped the big blow which gave Labine a seven-hit victory in what was only his third complete game in five years.

It was a tense pitching duel under chill blue skies as the burly Turley and the slender Labine battled scorelessly through nine well-pitched innings, following Yankee Don Larsen's perfect no-hitter Monday.

Only once before, in the second game of the 1913 series when the Giants scored three runs in the 10th to beat the Athletics 3-0, had there been a scoreless tie for nine frames.

Labine set those hard-swinging Yankees down in order in the top of the 10th and then Turley went to the hill again.

The big fellow, who had struck out 11 men to that point, retired Labine but then paved the way for his own defeat as he issued a walk to wiry Junior Gilliam.

Fee Wee Reese tried to beat out a bunt but was out at first as Gilliam moved up to second. Then it was the menacing Snider-stepping up to the plate and Turley was ordered to give him an intentional pass, with first base open.

That brought up Robinson, the veteran third baseman who may call this his final year. The count went to one strike and one ball. Then Robinson added another storied line to his baseball saga with a chip-down drive on which the leaping Gilliam raced home with the winning run.

It also wrapped up for the 30-year-old Labine the first World Series shutout at tiny Ebbets Field since 1920, when Burleigh Grimes of these same embattled Dodgers beat Cleveland, 3-0—and there have been 23 World Series games played
